WEATHER INDICATIONS.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., Aug. 11.

There is an area of high pressure central in northeastern Minnesota, with an area of low pressure to the west and another to the east. To the westward of Minnesota and Iowa the winds are easterly and the temperature is rising, over the upper lakes the winds are northerly, the weather cloudy and the temperature remains stationary and rain has fallen over the upper and lower lakes during the past 24 hours. The weather is also cloudy over the lower lakes and the winds are southerly and the temperature has fallen. The cause of the recent warm wave, the area of high barometric pressure in the extreme southeast is still there, but the northern high has sufficient vitality to overcome the rush of air from the south, but unless the high in the south comes eastward by Saturday, the weather here will become warm again.

The indications for to-day and Friday are generally fair with local showers, slightly cooler.

STOLEN HORSE.

Norwalk, O., Aug. 11.—(Special)—C. W. Andeson, of this city, had a valuable horse stolen from the stable on the Brady farm, about 3 o'clock this morning. A reward was offered of $25 for the horse and $50 for the thief.

Following is a description of the horse: Dapple gray, 17 hands high, weight 1,300 or 1,400 pounds, thin in flesh, raw boned, long geared; collar boil on the top of neck.

COKE MEN STRIKE

One Thousand Men in the Fairmont Regions

Go Out on a Question of Union Recognition.

Scale Agreement by the Conference Committee.

The Question of a Boycott at Homestead.

All the Latest Gossip Concerning the Labor Troubles in the Iron and Coal Districts of the Eastern States.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 11.—The trouble in the upper Monongahela (Fairmont) coke region, has reached a climax.

One thousand men are already out and it is certain that the entire region will become involved.

The question of wages has little to do with the strike, the prime cause being the demand of the Miners' union for recognition.

THE ADVISORY BOARD.

The Members Are Doing Their Duty Faithfully.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 11.—The advisory board of the Amalgamated association is holding daily sessions at Homestead to devise means by which they can further embarrass the Carnegie company in its attempt to start the mills non-union. They are credited with having a scheme in hand that they think if it can be carried out might seriously hinder the company's plan.

It is stated that the idea as outlined by President Gompers is, if possible, to secure the aid of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Switchmen's association, and other railroad organizations with a view to effectually stopping the shipment from or to any of the Carnegie works.

If this plan is put in operation, with the boycott that the American Federation of Labor is expected to adopt, the workmen, it is held, will have a power at hand the like of which has never been wielded by any labor organization in the country.

Correspondence will be opened with President Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Engineers, and the heads of other railroad organizations, with a view to procuring their aid. The boycott will be established by the American Federation of Labor.

Speaking of the attempt to get the railroad men to refuse to haul the Carnegie products, Mr. James M. Bailey, of the Sligo rolling mill, said to-day: "They cannot possibly do it. The law would prohibit such a move, and the parties concerned would be liable to arrest for conspiracy. The railroads are common carriers, and cannot refuse to handle the goods."

Some of the Amalgamated officials are very doubtful of the probable results of the move, and admit that the chances are decidedly against them, but say they are trying this scheme as their most effective plan for winning the Homestead fight.

MUTUAL CONCESSION.

Manufacturers and the Amalgamated Get Together.

Pittsburg, Aug. 11.—The differences between the iron manufacturers and the Amalgamated association have been amicably settled by mutual concessions, and the threatened strike of ironworkers in this city and the west has been averted. Fifteen mills will resume at once and the other plants will start up as soon as necessary repairs can be made.

This is the result of the conference of the joint committee of iron manufacturers and members of the Amalgamated association yesterday.

An agreement was reached at 10:30 o'clock last night, the scale signed and the conference finally adjourned.

By the terms of the agreement the basis of puddling remains at $5.50 per ton, but the men in the finishing department have been reduced 10 per cent. There are a few minor concessions in the other departments, but just what they are could not be learned last night.

There was a hard fight on the puddling scale, but the manufacturers finally consented to pay the old scale upon the workers conceding the reduction in the finishing department. Work will now be resumed here, and as soon as it is possible to get the mills in operation.

While the settlement directly affects the 25,000 or 30,000 skilled workers in the Amalgamated association, fully 100,000 others are interested. The news of the signing of the scale was received with great rejoicing, not only by the mill workers, but every one in this vicinity.

The settlement only affects the Pittsburg district, but it is thought that the manufacturers of the Shenango and Mahoning valleys and the west will fall in line and sign the scale.

It has been learned that under the agreement the rate for puddling and rolling will remain the same as last year, except in the plate department, which will be reduced from 72 to 60 cents. The extras in this department, however, will be paid on the basis of the old rate of 72 cents. The roll turners will receive $3 a day. As stated before, the Pittsburg mills will resume at once and the valley and western mills will likely follow in a few days. In this city there are about 15,000 skilled workmen and as many more who will be given employment by the resumption of operations.

The settlement does not affect the Homestead strike directly in any way. The Carnegie Steel company was not one of the participants in the conference. They steadily refused to join with the other iron and steel manufacturers in their efforts to reach an agreement without strikes.

AT HOMESTEAD.

Potter and Childs Venture Among the Strikers.

Homestead, Pa., Aug. 11.—President Gompers and other prominent labor leaders are expected here this afternoon. The object of their visit is not known, members of the advisory committee refusing to give information, but it is thought they are coming to perfect the plans for making general the boycott on all material manufactured by the Carnegie Steel company.

For the first time since the inauguration of the strike Superintendent Potter and Vice Chairman Childs paid a visit to the business portion of Homestead to-day. They came down Eighth avenue about 11 o'clock, unaccompanied by an armed escort.

Although they were forced to run a gauntlet of several hundred strikers they were offered no violence; not a word was spoken to them and not an insulting remark made.

This fact is the more remarkable from the fact that the feeling against Potter has all along been most bitter, as he is blamed for the present trouble.

The signing of the scale by the iron manufacturers is hailed with delight by the locked out men, who believe that their cause cannot help but be greatly improved by the indorsement of their scale.

CANADIAN SENSATION.

Col. Ray Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 11.—The arrest of Col. Ray, a prominent banker and military man of Port Arthur, has created a tremendous sensation in society circles.

Col. Ray met on the street Mrs. Bathurst, wife of Dr. Bathurst, a well known physician, and engaged her in conversation. They walked toward the Bathurst residence and when it was reached the colonel asked permission to enter.

A few minutes later he made an indecent proposition to the lady which so startled her that she swooned. While in in fainting condition Mrs. Bathurst says the colonel accomplished his purpose.

When the lady recovered she at once alarmed the household. Col. Ray, hearing that proceedings were to be taken sent a friend with a check for $5,000 to suppress matters. This she indignantly refused and at once swore out a warrant for the man's arrest.

Dr. Bathurst, who was out of the city, did not return until the following day. He is furious over the outrage and swears to shoot Ray if he escapes justice in the courts.

SEWER PIPE MAKERS.

Another Effort to Form an Organization.

Cleveland, Aug. 11.—The sewer pipe manufacturers will make another effort to reorganize their association, which dissolved a few months ago when the members could not agree among themselves.

They will meet in the Forest City house, where they met three weeks ago and began the work of reorganization.

The sewer pipe manufacturers are the most secretive men that visit the city, and it is impossible at any time to learn much more than that a meeting is being held. Among those already at the Forest City house are Ira F. Otis, of Rochester; F. F. Anderson, of East Liverpool; J. Francey, of Toronto, O.; A. Demsbaugh and Alfred and Byron Lyth, of Buffalo. D. E. Hill, of Akron, another manufacturer, is at the Kennard house. About thirty other manufacturers are expected to arrive to-day in time for the meeting. Nearly all those stopping at the Forest City house had rooms on the same floor and a number of little conferences were held.

FATAL SHOOTING.

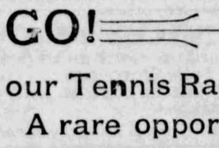
Richville, Ill., Aug. 11.—Peter Fox was shot and killed in his blacksmith shop at 10 o'clock last night by Small Roosa. The shooting was caused by a dispute over charges for services. Roosa shot Fox four times, three of the bullets taking effect in Fox's left breast near the heart. Fox died in 20 minutes after the shooting. Roosa surrendered to Sheriff Greer and is confined in the court house under a strong guard.

KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 11.—Harry P. Maguire, a prominent young man of this city, while out hunting yesterday afternoon on the Delaware bay in a skiff, with his brother and several friends, was in the act of pulling his gun towards him when it exploded, the contents entering his body near the heart, killing him instantly.

HAMILTON COUNTY'S LIQUOR TAX.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—Hamilton county made its liquor tax settlement with the auditor of state to-day. The whole tax is $283,102.39, of which the state gets $56,620.48. It is the last county to settle.



Pretty strong reasons for trying Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. In the first place, it cures your catarrh—no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing. It doesn't simply palliate—it cures. If you believe it, so much the better. There's nothing more to be said. You get it for 50 cents, from all druggists.

But perhaps you won't believe it. Then there's another reason for trying it. Show that you can't be cured, and you'll get $500. It's a plain business offer. The makers of Dr. Sage's Remedy will pay you that amount if they can't cure you. They know that they can—you think that they can't. If they're wrong, you get the cash. If you're wrong, you're rid of catarrh.

Here are some of the symptoms of Catarrh: Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid, and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Only a few of these likely to be present at once.

BOSTON IN THE LEAD

For the Meeting Place of the Next Conclave.

The Knights Leaving the City of Denver.

A Successful Week and Everybody Returns Home With Pleasant Remembrances of the Event.

Denver, Col., Aug. 11.—There is nothing of an outside nature disturbing the Knights to-day and they are attending strictly to business. Just as Monday was the day of influx, to-day is the day of exodus. During the early part of last evening a hundred trains were made up and took their departure for the west. To-day it is different. Trains are departing in every direction with tired crowds of people.

During the week things have gone exceptionally well. In handling all the crowds there has been but few accidents and this alone is a matter of congratulation.

The scene at the depot to-day was animated and interesting. Friendships formed during the conclave were warm and the parting guests all expressed the hope that they would meet their hosts again at the next conclave.

Many will remain here over Sunday to avoid the big rush to get home, and they will have a much easier trip.

The campaign for the location of the next conclave has been a warm one, but this morning it looks very much as if Boston would capture the prize.

Cincinnati, Louisville and Minneapolis entered the field, but the Bostonians got a good start, and by last night were confident of winning by two-thirds majority.

The question will come up for settlement this afternoon at the earliest, and from the way things look now it is safe to say Boston will get the conclave in 1895.

The routine business of the grand encampment was polished off expeditiously at yesterday's session. Reports from each of the grand officers of the different states and territories under the jurisprudence of the encampment were presented and adopted. They showed the Knights Templar of America to be in excellent shape. The total number of members of grand and subordinate commanderies in this country being 92,791, while the net cash resources in the hands of the grand treasurer amounts to $25,325.97.

Committees were appointed as follows:

Credentials—W. W. Allen, B. S. Witt, Kentucky; Wm. Pettie, California.

Doings of Grand Officers—W. P. Innes, Michigan; S. D. Bacon, Indiana; J. H. Coding, Pennsylvania; George Turnside, South Dakota; D. C. Proctor, Texas; N. C. Blacklock, Washington; La Fayette Little, Ohio; E. C. Salisbury, Nebraska; C. Swanley, Connecticut.

Finance—Geo. R. Burnham, Rhode Island; E. C. Birdseye, Connecticut; E. B. Downham, Virginia; T. O. Norris, Tennessee; C. C. Isaacs, Maryland; S. P. Hamilton, Georgia; D. W. Wallace, Missouri.

Unfinished Business—W. B. Melish, Ohio; R. W. Darcy, District of Columbia; E. C. Culp, Kansas; J. W. Stanton, Colorado; J. J. Hays, Mississippi; V. B. Van Saun, Iowa; C. E. Rosebaum, Arkansas.

Grievances—J. R. Parsons, Mississippi; W. F. Muchmore, New Jersey; P. A. Wilson, North Carolina; D. M. Holmes, North Dakota; John Martin, Texas; E. B. Hay, District of Columbia; Charles B. Finch, Nebraska; T. B. Patton, Oregon; T. Montgomery, Minnesota.

Next Place of Meeting—D. W. Parker, District of Columbia; J. H. Manning, Indiana; J. P. S. Gorgas, Maryland; W. H. Webster, Florida; J. B. Peabody, Colorado; W. W. Van Winkle, Virginia; J. H. Brown, Kansas.

Dispensation and New Charters—J. H. Conover, Michigan; W. B. Chamberlain, Massachusetts and Rhode Island; T. B. Hicks, Wyoming; S. O. Spring, Illinois; J. Sloan, Missouri; B. L. Carr, Colorado; K. Hankins, Vermont.

The report of the special committee on rituals of the Red Cross and Templar order occupied the attention of the encampment the greater portion of the day. The committee has been working for three years on this report. It was adopted unanimously. Of course, the proceedings were secret to outsiders, but this information was given out to the press officially.

The grand commandery met at 9 o'clock this morning in closed session and it was announced that there was nothing to be divulged till the noon recess. With the ritual matter settled, it was expected there will be committee reports and action taken in various lines of importance to the order.

Election of officers comes to-day and it is almost certain that Hon. Hugh McCurdy will be selected as eminent grand commander.

He has served in the capacity of deputy for the last three years and the precedent followed is to advance a man step by step until he reaches the highest honor in the order. He is an authority on Masonic history and is well known all over the United States.

Mr. McCurdy is a man of medium stature and excellent physique. Though his hair and closely cropped beard is white he is not bald nor does he show the age that his hair would indicate. He is over 60 but little, and has the activity of a man of 30. At his home in Corunna, he is a judge on he bench and is a lawyer of well known ability.

BRIBING HIM TO GO.

Late Developments in the Deacon Case.

The American Refuses to Sell His Honor.

He Will Remain in Prison Until His Term Expires and Then Prosecute the Divorce Case.

London, Aug. 11.—It is stated that Edward Parker Deacon was offered release from prison on condition that he would leave France forthwith, never to return.

Mr. Deacon wrote to the prefect of Nice, refusing to accept the offer.

The French authorities are much disappointed at the refusal, as their object has been to prevent, if possible, the trial of Deacon's suit against his wife for divorce, and the exposure to the world of the additional evidence going to show her guilty of misconduct with M. Abeille.

They would like to expel Deacon from the country after his term of imprisonment, but as they have no ground for such action, it is feared that it might call forth a remonstrance on the part of the American legation.

Therefore the attempt was made to induce Deacon to go as a condition of being liberated.

The Abeille family and their influential connections are busily engaged in endeavoring to prevent Deacon from having any farther opportunity to air his grievances and have, it is said, succeeded in completely gaining over the highest authorities of the republic on their side. On the other hand the sympathy of foreigners, both in Paris, Nice and elsewhere is strongly with Deacon.

It is said that there is a class of Frenchmen of the same character as Abeille who are continually annoying the wives and daughters of foreigners, to whom they contrive to obtain an introduction, and that the Deacon case has been a salutary lesson for this class of people.

It has been claimed by Deacon's friends that one reason why so much severity is shown towards him is that men like Abeille are so comparatively numerous in France that in punishing Deacon they are protecting themselves by giving notice to foreigners that Frenchmen who insult or mislead their wives and daughters must not be interfered with, especially must not be killed.

Between the Deacon case and the cholera the foreign influx to France is not as large as in ordinary years and there is more of a tendency to Switzerland and other countries. Mr. Deacon's suit for divorce will come up on September 23, and there is every indication that it will be sharply contested.

SMALLPOX IN NEW YORK.

Five Cases Reported by the Health Inspectors, One Having Proved Fatal.

New York, Aug. 11.—The health inspectors reported three cases of smallpox to-day, one of them fatal. Joseph Daneir, a confectioner, died of the disease at his home, No. 101 West Houston street, today, and Baptiste Bouletti, a cook employed at the Merchants' hotel, was found sick with the scourge at No. 26 South Fifth avenue.

A sister of Daneir, who lived with him, worked every day throughout his illness in a candy factory with two hundred other women. It is feared she may have spread the germs of the disease. The sick man who died also worked in a candy factory.

In the house where he died, and where he had lain sick for a week, there lived sixteen families. Neither his wife nor his sister would permit a physician to be called. The neighbors at last became alarmed and a sanitary inspector was called in ten minutes before he died. A short time after Daneir's death it was discovered that a four-year-old girl was suffering from smallpox at No. 221 West Houston street, one block distant.

The health officers discovered two more cases of smallpox this afternoon, who were found sick at their homes. They were John Milliken, a carpenter, aged 32, of No. 1303 Third avenue, and William Heineman, 36 years old, a broommaker, of 512 Broome street. Both patients were removed to North Brothers' island, and their apartments fumigated.

A BAD MINISTER.

The Rev. Dr. Wm. Hammond Heard From at Last.

New York, Aug. 11.—A special to the World from Boston says that the Rev. Dr. Wm. Hammond, Baptist minister, bigamist, embezzler, thief and rascal generally, is now believed to be in Japan.

Yesterday the Boston police received a letter from Chief James, of the Melbourne police, asking for the doctor's career in Boston.

He has left bad records after him at Allenton, Pa.; South Putney, N. Y.; Indian Village, Ind.; Montreal, and Macon, Fla., where he is now wanted on a default bond.

INCORPORATED.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—The following articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the secretary of state yesterday: The Burr Oak Brick Co., Burr Oak, capital stock $50,000; the Lake County Street Railroad Co., Willoughby, capital stock $20,000; the Hill Top Mutual Aid association, Cincinnati.

BLOOMING COUNTRY.

A Henglishman Who Don't Like Hamerica.

Sir George R. Dibbs Leaves the Bloody Land.

He is Mad at Chicago, and the Great City of the West Might as Well Go Out of Business at Once.

New York, Aug. 11.—The Herald says: 'A scene occurred in a billiard room in the Victoria hotel between her majesty's prime minister for the colony of New South Wales, Sir George R. Dibbs, and Col. Alexander Campbell, world's fair commissioner for the British colonies in the South Pacific. A number of people witnessed it.

The violence of the episode was contributed almost wholly by Sir George. He was in a state of irritation over certain details of the world's fair arrangements for New South Wales, and was moreover, much affected by the fatigue of an excursion on the Hudson and down the bay.

Col. Campbell, who had been in Washington for a month, presumably to help along in the world's fair appropriation, came to New York to pay his respects to the distinguished Australian. When I called upon Col. Campbell yesterday at his hotel he told me the story of his reception by the antipodian. "I had to wait some time at the Victoria for Sir George, but finally met him at the entrance to the large billiard hall of that place. He knew me at once, but when I greeted him he replied in a most extraordinary manner.

"I said: 'Sir George, I am glad to welcome you to America,' at the same time extending my hand.

"He replied, accepting my proffered hand greeting, in these words: 'I don't care a —— for the country and I'm —— sorry I'm in it.'"

"He spoke sharply and with unseemly emphasis. I said again: 'I'm very sorry you don't like the country, but you have seen only a little of it. I hope you'll visit Washington and Chicago and see more of it en route.'

"To this he retorted with emphasis which could not be accounted for upon any creditable hypothesis: 'D—— Chicago. I'll be —— if I'll go there and I don't want to see Washington or any more of this —— country. The —— Chicago people have caused us to squander £20,000 for your —— fair. More than that, if you had not come to Australia we would not have put up a —— pound. Your people wrote and telegraphed me that your promises were unauthorized, and that we might have 50,000 feet instead of the 300,000 you promised, and put up our own building in case we choose to come.'

"On hearing this extraordinary fusilade," Col. Campbell continued, "I began to think something was wrong. I said: 'This is all news to me, Sir George, and I must look into it. I have had within a few days and repeatedly before assurances from the fair directory that they would give special attention to the Australian colonies, for they are a commercial field which we greatly want to cultivate. I am sure if you will go to Chicago the directory will take you to the grounds and make you feel that special attention will be given to Australia and New Zealand.'

"He said, in a tone still more aggressive than before: 'I have telegraphed my people to give up the whole work and let what had been squandered go. But some say they will come anyhow. Very well, let them come. I know that not one-quarter as many will come as would come if your —— Chicago directory had not treated us so meanly.'

"The talk ran along at this rate for a few minutes. Sir George would not be mollified. The more I talked, the less inclined he seemed to be to stop abusing the country and its people. So I concluded he was a hard case to deal with under present conditions."

LAKESIDE.

Death of Judge Newell—Personal and Social.

Lakeside, Aug. 11. — (Special.) — Dr. Riker, pastor of the M. E. church at Wheeling, West Virginia, preached at 10:30 Wednesday morning from the text, "Now the end of the commandment is charity, out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience and of faith unfeigned."

Rev. Smith has charge of the Bible readings at 8 a. m. each morning and Dr. Keen of the Pentacostal service at 2:30 p. m.

Bishop Thoburn, of India, will be here next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The "Eagle" took a party of eighty excursionists to Detroit Tuesday.

The "A. Wherle, jr.," which is due here at 7:30 p. m., did not land until 10:30 Tuesday evening. The delay was caused by the boat waiting for passengers on a delayed train at Sandusky.

The Salvation Army will camp here Wednesday and Thursday next week.

J. S. Schneider, of Newport, Ky., is superintendent of the German camp meeting, which began Tuesday evening.

The Lakeside Daily News has the following on the death of Judge Newell:

The Hon. A. P. Newell, probate judge of Fulton county, died at his cottage on Sycamore avenue, at 9:20 Wednesday morning. The judge had been suffering from a complication of diseases for several years and came to Lakeside five weeks ago in the hope of recuperating somewhat. Since coming here he had returned to Wauseon once, the rest of the time had been spent on the grounds, but without any apparent physical benefit. He was confined to his room a few days ago, rapidly became worse and died.

"A. P. Newell was born in September, 1847, and so would have been 45 years old next fall. He was educated for the ministry, but delicate health compelled him to relinquish his chosen work. Most of his life was devoted to teaching. At the time of his death Mr. Newell was serving his second term as probate judge of Fulton county. He was a competent teacher, and a man of marked ability in the probate judgeship. His death is mourned by a wide circle of friends, all of whom smypathize with Mrs. Newell in her affliction."

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—The Carriage and Wagon Workers' International union yesterday provided for organizers in each state and that any person in the union who becomes intoxicated shall be summarily expelled.

THE MARBLEHEAD.

Another Boat Added to Uncle Sam's Navy.

Dimensions of the Craft Expected to Help Defend Our Country's Flag.

Boston, Aug. 11.—Cruiser No. 11 will be adopted into the United States navy to-day under the name of Marblehead, and will be christened by Mrs. C. F. Allen, daughter-in-law of President C. H. Allen, of the Home Savings bank and the Central National bank.

The Marblehead will be the first large vessel of war launched in Boston harbor since 1848. Her dimensions are: Length on mean load water line, 257 feet; extreme breadth, 37 feet; depth of hold to under side of spar deck plank amidships, 19 feet 6 inches; draft of water mean normal, 14 feet 6 inches; displacement in tons to load water line, 2,000; area of immersed midship section, 665 square feet; indicated horse power, 5,400; maximum speed per hour, 18 knots in smooth water.

She is a twin screw cruiser, with poop and forecastle decks and an open gun deck between, fitted with a water-tight deck of 17 1-2 pounds plating at the sides, reduced to 12 pounds in the center and extending the entire length of the vessel, this deck being below the water line at the side 30 inches. Below this deck will be placed the machinery, magazines and steering apparatus.

Among the notable improvements will be an increase of speed, re-arrangement of battery and a cofferdam protection extending through the entire machinery space.

The torpedo outfit will consist of six torpedo guns for launching torpedoes. There will be an electric light plant on board. The battery will consist of two six-inch breech-loading rifles, eight five-inch breech-loading rifles, four on each side of the cruiser, six six-pound and two one-pound rapid-firing guns and two Gatling guns.

Means are provided for securing natural and artificial ventilation in the living and storage places by utilizing frame spaces. Automatic valves are fitted in ventilating pipes where they pass through watertight bulkheads to prevent the flood of water from one compartment to another.

A motive power for the twin screws will be furnished by two triple expansion engines of the vertical invested type, one on each side of the vessel, 6,400 horse-power, with cylinders of 20 1-2, 39 and 63 inches diameter and a stroke of 33 inches.

The engines and boilers will be placed in separate water-tight compartments. The boilers will be of steel, five in number, for the return fire tubular pipe and designed for a working pressure of 188 pounds.

The steering apparatus will be amply protected. In times of peace she will be handled from a wooden pilot house on the forecastle bridge by steam gear. In the event of that being disabled there will be both hand and steam gear on the gun deck and just forward of the main mast. In case of an injury being sustained the vessel can be controlled from the berth deck.

Additional steering gear can be found in case all the above give out, below the water line at the riggerhead. The Marblehead was designed by Chief Contractor Theodore B. Wilson, of the United States navy. The machinery, which is to be placed in position a few months after the launching, was designed by Engineer in Chief George W. Melville, of the navy department.

THE BORDEN CASE.

Coroner's Inquest Still in Session.

No New Light, and the Case as Much of a Mystery as it Was at First.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 11.—The Borden inquest was resumed this morning. Charles Sawyer who guarded the door of the house while Officer Allen ran to the central station, was the first witness. He testified that he ran to the house when he saw Mrs. Russell running and that he was with Officer Doherty and a United Press reporter when Dr. Bowen discovered that Mrs. Borden did not die of heart disease.

Officer George Allen was next called. His testimony added no new light to the crime. Mrs. Perry Gifford was being examined at 12 o'clock.

Marshal Hilliard said this morning that three clues were already being run down and none of them would in any way implicate a member of the household. He also said that close medical examinations and their results would be a feature of the case and that it might turn out that suspicion would be directed from the Borden family. It has been proved that the suspected poisonous milk drank by the Borden family was all right when it was taken from the Borden farm and brought to this city.

BREEZE FROM THE ARCTIC

Cold Chills Run Up and Down the Republican Back.

The Mansfield Icicle Refuses to Thaw Out.

Why Sherman Refused to Take Part in the Republican Proceedings at Woodsdale Island.

Cincinnati, Aug. 11.—Col. W. H. Chase, of Dayton, is in the city arranging for the presence of the Republican clubs in Hamilton county at the big demonstration at Woodsdale Island September 1, which will be the opening of he republican campaign in Ohio. Among the speakers will be Governor Foraker and Governor McKinley.

In this connection a good story is told of Senator Sherman, who was invited to be present on that occasion, but could not see his way clear to accepting the invitation.

During a recent visit to Washington of the committee appointed to arrange for the Woodsdale meeting Senator Sherman was seen and formally requested to speak at the meeting. He declined to do so, and the cold, indifferent manner of his declination piqued one of the committee who is noted for the courage of his convictions. Accordingly he thus addressed Senator Sherman:

"We are disappointed, Senator, said he, "but not surprised. This is in line with the charge frequently made against you, and believed by many persons in Ohio that you are unwilling to take part in campaigns except when there is something at stake for yourself. You are aware, of course, that this is the opening of the republican campaign in Ohio in a presidential year."

Senator Sherman was forced to admit his knowledge of that fact, but began to object to the place chosen for the meeting, and remarked:

"That is a singular place to hold the meeting—so near Cincinnati, too. I can't understand why I failed to get the support of Hamilton county in my recent senatorial contest. Wouldn't it have been better to have selected Put-in-Bay as the place for the meeting, since it occurs on the anniversary of Perry's victory?"

The committeeman lost his temper, and proceeded to tell Senator Sherman in vigorous language what many Ohio republican think of him. The senator, too, became "riled," and said:

"Oh, you talk that way because you are a Foraker man."

"No, I don't, sir," was the reply; "I say it because I'm a republican, and because your action proves the charge that you are indifferent to republican success unless you are personally interested in the result of a campaign."

CHOLERA IN ASIA MINOR

Riot Among the Plague Stricken People.

A Large Number Make a Break for Liberty.

Eight Persons Shot Dead and a Number Wounded by the Military Forces.

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—The cholera is raging in Asia Minor, having been brought by travelers from Persia.

At Trebizond not less than 1,500 persons are confined in the Lazaretto, a rude inclosure outside the walls of the town.

Many of these are suffering with cholera but the greater number are persons detained because they have been exposed to infection.

Those are restless under detention, and yesterday they made an effort to break through the cordon established around the lazaretto and to gain their freedom. The Turkish troops were summoned to prevent the escape.

A large force of military hurried to the scene, and the mob was ordered to disperse, and return to the lazarette. The mob refused, whereupon the troops were directed to fire. The soldiers sent a volley straight into the struggling mass, who were filling the air with cries and shouts of defiance. A number of persons fell, killed and wounded. This terrified the rioters and the survivors returned, without further demonstration to the lazarette.

The number of killed was eight and of wounded34.

The populace of Trebizond are greatly excited and they strongly resent the steps taken by the authorities to prevent, by sanitary precaution, the shread of the disease.

Advices from the Crimea and the Caucasus state that the cholera is decreasing in virulence. In northern and central Russia, however, the disease is increasing, and in Moscow 23 more factories have been closed, owing to the spread of the plague.

The Grand Duke Sergius, governor of Moscow, has surprised the people by his display of personal energy in dealing with the plague; while the Grand Duchess Elizabeth, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, devotes her personal attention to the relief of the sufferers.

Besides the sanitary precautions taken, prayers are offered up daily in the churches for the abatement of the pestilence, and the monks of the various monasteries may be seen going in processions and chanting hymns. The authorities are enforcing a thorough cleansing of the filthier portions of the city, much to the disgust of the lower class of inhabitants, who object to being disturbed. People who fail to obey the sanitary regulations are severely punished.

COL. H. CLAY KING'S CASE

His Commutation Causing Excitement.

The Press of Tennessee Scores Buchanan.

Editorial Comment of the Most Bitter Kind—The Governer Hanged in Effigy.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 11.—The city was thrown into a state of intense excitement when the announcement appeared that Gov. Buchanan has commuted the sentence of Col. H. Clay King, who was to have been hung on the 12th inst., for the murder of D. H. Poston. The Appeal-Avalanche, in discussing the subject, said:

"The governor's power in the matter is absolute and exclusive. The responsibility is his alone. He is not required to give reasons. He may yield to any passing caprice, to appeal to his sympathies, to prejudice, and yet his authority remains undisputable and supreme. If his determination of the King case is to be taken as a precedent, then we see no reason why any other criminal should ever be hanged in Tennessee. King, in cold blood, after careful deliberation, shot down David H. Poston, unarmed and unsuspecting. It was a highway assassination in which the victim was given no chance to defend himself. There could not have been a murder more heinous. When the trial was had the murderer himself, with the most extraordinary assurances, protested against the introduction of the insanity plea."

Discussing the review of the case by the supreme court, the Appeal-Avalanche continues:

"The opinion was welcomed by all lovers of law and order. Its effect was not confined to Tennessee. It was felt throughout the whole United States, and the supreme court of Tennessee gained enduring honor for advancing civilization to that degree. The court did not overlook any phase in the case. It considered even the excuses King made for his act. But the governor brought all this to naught. Having the greater power to save, he has met the courts' power to condemn, and has whistled the latter's judgment down the wind. With a stroke of his pen he has given hope to very murderer in the jails of Tennessee. He has rebuked the jury and made light of the state's highest tribunal of justice. It were infinitely better if the jury of the trial court had bade King to go free. We now wish sincerely that it had done so. It were even better if the governor had granted an absolute pardon. He had acted without the support of the trial judge, the jury or the prosecutor, usually an essential prequisite in gubernatorial clemency, and it now remains for King's art to solve the question of his freedom."

The Evening Scimiter vehemently denounces the governor in a sensational editorial abounding in such sentences as these:

"He has spit upon the courts of the state and nation and held out his hand to save an assassin in whose person was centered, and upon whose fate depended the question whether money and influence in the south was sufficient to make a distinction between persons convicted of cold-blooded murder.

"The rescue of H. Clay King from the gallows to which all the courts of the country, after a careful review of the evidence had condemned him, was a crime more damnable even than the murder of Poston.

"He has risen above all law, all right, all justice. What King did as a citizen he has done as the chief executive of the state. He has taken the law into his own hands, justified the murder of Poston. He has saved the assassin. He has taken the smoked pistol from King's hand, stepped into his shoes, dipped his hands in the blood of his victim and trampled upon the already outraged law. He has turned a deaf ear to the pleadings of the victim's family for justice. He has made the governor of the state the champion of murderers.

"The governor's conduct tears the bandage from the eyes of justice. It pulls down the pillars of the temple. It paralyzes the strong arm of the law. It stifles the cry of the widow and the orphan, makes of the court a sham. It shakes the very foundation of society and makes every man a law unto himself.

"If Buchanan should be shot down from behind a pillar on the portico of the capitol to-day, if King should be slain on his way to the penitentiary, who shall say that the gallows would bear fruit?

These publications aroused intense feeling. A mass meeting was arranged for last night, at which Gov. Buchanan was hanged in effigy. It was given out that the jail would be attacked and the notorious prisoner lynched. So great was the anxiety that the criminal court judge, J. J. Dubose, issued the following order late last evening:

"It appearing to the court that there is undue excitement in the public mind because of the commutation of the sentence of H. Clay King, who was by the supreme court sentenced to hang on the 12th day of August, 1892, and it further appearing that because of threatened mob violence, it is not safe to longer keep said King in the county jail of Shelby county, it is therefore ordered by the court that the sheriff of Shelby county, without delay, take said King and deliver him to the keeper of the penitentiary at Nashville, in pursuance to the order as made by the governor commuting his sentence to life imprisonment in the penitentiary of the state. J. J. Dubose."

"Attest: James F. Hunter, D. C."

King was spirited away. The whole country is aroused. Telegrams from Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee are pouring in protesting with fiery indignation against the action of the governor.

After the rain subsided a crowd of people assembled at the corner of Main and Madison streets, the most central point in the city, and after hanging an effigy of Gov. Buchanan to a telegraph pole set the dummy afire and watched it burn. There was no speaking indulged in.

Henry Clay King's downfall can be traced entirely to his allurement from the path of honor by a fascinating and beautiful woman whom he met five years ago.

This woman is Mrs. Mary J. Pillow, wife of Gen. Gideon J. Pillow, who distinguished himself in the Mexican war, and who, during the siege of Fort Donelson, declined the command of the confederate forces in favor of Gen. Buckner, the officer who was compelled to capitulate in a few days to the victorious Grant.

When Col. King met Mrs. Pillow she was about 45 years of age, but looked and acted at least 15 years younger. Their meeting was a chance one, in the ordinary affairs of business in his own office, and from that hour the great lawyer was her slave.

Finding that concealment of the facts from the public was impossible, he finally went to board with the woman in her own apartments, openly deserting his wife and children.

It was then that popular disapproval began to manifest itself, and its effect upon King's business and personal associations was more than he could stand. To escape an indignation rapidly growing into wrath on the part of the Memphis citizens, the colonel, accompanied by his ensnarer, removed to his plantation in Lee county, Arkansas, where they lived together as man and wife.

Mrs. Pillow in a few weeks began to lay plans to secure King's property in her own name. She suggested to her admirer that his possessions could only be made safe from the clutches of his wife and family by transferring the title to some other than himself. The ruse was successful.

Within a year Mrs. Pillow was the undisputed owner of the Arkansas plantation, and had prevailed upon King to have the legal instruments duly made out deeding the Memphis homestead, occupied by his wife and children.

By mutual agreement this deed was left unrecorded, the preparation of the papers being simply intended to promptly thwart any attempt on the part of his wife's relatives to deprive him of his right in the property.

But Mrs. Pillow was not disposed to let such an excellent opportunity to add to her estate to slip by. Unknown to the colonel she quietly took the deeds and had them registered.

When King discovered her perfidy his rage knew no bounds. Feigning a lingering respect for his family, he accused the author of his ruin with dishonesty and deception as well as a desire to reduce to poverty his wife and children who had done her no harm.

The battle, which was long and loud, ended in Mrs. Pillow ordering King off her property, and he had to obey.

Penniless and friendless, he returned to Memphis, only to be shunned and execrated by his former associates.

Then followed an effort on his part to renew relations with Mrs. Pillow, but she spurned his advances.

This caused him to bring suit in the Arkansas courts for the recovery of his property, which led to the publication of the disgraceful story in detail. Poston & Poston, of Memphis, were retained as Mrs. Pillow's attorneys, the senior partner of the firm being David H. Poston, the murdered man.

Poston was regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in Tennessee, and was peculiarly noted for plainness and force of speech, which cut to the quick of his antagonist at every sentence.

In King's case, which afforded him unusual opportunity, he used his gift to the utmost. To the judge and jury he uncovered the plaintiff's real character, and was most unsparing in the terms of denunciation applied.

This was more than the fiery southern blood of King could bear. The night before the murder he was drinking in a saloon, and said in the hearing of a number of bystanders that he would kill Dave Poston on sight.

Poston paid no attention to this threat when repeated to him.

About 11 o'clock the next morning he went up the street, swinging his burly form as was his custom, little dreaming of the fate awaiting him.

Suddenly King stepped out of an alley holding out his left hand as if in friendly greeting. Poston halted and was in the act of presenting his own hand when King drew his revolver, placed the muzzle within a few inches of the victim's body, and hissing out an oath pulled the trigger.

Poston staggered forward exclaiming: "My God, I am shot; help me in somewhere."

Six hours later he was dead, and King only owed his own life to the vigilance of the deputies, who had difficulty in saving him from the hands of the citizens, who wanted to execute summary justice upon him.

LABOR DAY.

Gov. McKinley Issues the Proclamation.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—The following was issued from the governor's office yesterday afternoon:

Proclamation by the Governor.

Whereas, On April 28, 1890, the following act was passed:

"Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, That the first Monday in September of each and every year shall be known as labor day, and be for all purposes whatsoever, except for the presentment for payment or acceptance and the protesting or the giving of notice of non-acceptance or of non-payment of all negotiable instruments, considered as the first day of the week."

And whereas the title of said act reads: "To provide for the observance of the first Monday in September of each and every year as a holiday."

Therefore, I, William McKinley, jr., governor of Ohio, do hereby draw attention to said holiday, which this year fallls upon Monday, the 5th day of September.

The greatness and glory and prosperity of the republic spring primarily from free and honest labor. It is fitting that we, as a people, should devote a day in recognition of the dignity and honor and importance of labor. I, therefore, request the citizens of Ohio to abstain from their usual occupations upon Monday, the 5th day of September next, and to observe it as a holiday, with social festivities and public celebrations.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused to be affixed the great seal of the state, at Columbus, O., this 10th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and seventeenth.

Wm. McKinley, jr.

By the governor:
C. L. Poorman, Secretary of State.

TO LIBEL HER.

The British Steamer Wilmington in Trouble.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Solicitor Hepburn, of the department of justice, to-day instructed the United States district attorney at Portland, Ore., to libel the British steamer Wilmington, and to prosecute with vigor such of her officers as were concerned in the recent attempt to smuggle opium into the United States.

According to reports received at the treasury department this vessel has been engaged for some time in smuggling opium into the United States from Victoria, B. C., where there is a large establishment devoted, so it is said, to the preparation of the drug for the American market.

The method of smuggling was to pack the opium into barrels with some light material and to throw the barrels into the Columbia river, at a point about thirty miles below Portland, where they were secured by confederates and taken to the interior for shipment to the eastern market.

The authorities have been watching this vessel for some time, and captured five of the barrels thrown overboard on her last trip, and in this way secured good evidence of her operations.

FOUGHT TO A DRAW.

Fifty Hard Rounds at the Pacific Club.

Billy Lavine and Jim Burge Have a Game Contest.

News of the Base Ball World—Gossip from the Racing Track—General Mention.

San Francisco, Aug. 11.—Billy Lavine, of Saginaw, Mich., and Jim Burge, the celebrated "Iron Bark Jimmy" of Australia, fought to a finish last night in the Pacific Athletic club rooms for a purse of $1,250.

Burge was favorite in the pools at 2 to 1, Lavine being entirely unknown on the coast, while Burge, though especially clever, is notoriously a perfect glutton for punishment and has won most of his battles simply by letting his antagonists wear themselves out on him. Both had trained hard and were within the light-weight limit.

The first round was spent in sparring and sizing each other up, Lavine teaching the Australian's mouth twice with left jabs. Burge forced the fighting in the second but Lavine showed he was much the cleverest man and landed his left on the face several times with a left swing on the jaw, but Burge recovered quickly and evened up matters with two or three good jabs on wind and jaw, nearly sending him to the floor.

The fifth, sixth and seventh were in favor of Burge. He forced the fighting throughout, playing on the Saginaw man's wind.

Lavine had a shade the best of the eighth, but Burge took the lead again in the ninth and kept it till the fourteenth, when Lavine woke up, surprising the spectators by landing some stinging lefts on the Australian's face, steadying him up considerably.

Nothing particular was done until the twenty-second, when both fought hard, Burge scoring first blood with a left-hander on the nose.

He appeared the stronger of the two men until the twenty-ninth round, when Lavine caught Burge heavily on the jaw twice, sending him to his corner groggy.

Lavine began forcing the fighting in the thirty-seventh, hitting Burge almost at will but with apparently little effect. In the fortieth he nearly knocked him out with a left upper cut on the chin.

The iron man came up comparatively fresh for the next round and fought back with vigor.

At the end of the fiftieth round both men were very tired and there being apparently no chance for either man to win the fight was declared a draw.

LIKES PRISON LIFE.

A Convict Who Has Served Three Terms and Wants to Remain.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—Last week Francis Noble, a noted criminal from Hamilton county, was released by expiration of his third sentence for assault upon women. The penitentiary officials were greatly surprised when a man appeared at the prison with Francis Noble in charge. The man, who did not give his name, said that Noble had been working for his father at Loveland, near Cincinnati, for the past few days, and that his actions had caused his parents to believe that he was a dangerous fellow to have about.

It was evident that Noble was not right mentally, and he had brought the man back to the penitentiary for safe keeping. He said that Noble was a hard worker, but they were in constant fear that he would attack somebody.

Warden James explained that they could not receive Noble at the institution, as he had not been convicted at any court and there were no commitment papers. They advised the man to take Noble before the probate court and have him adjudged insane, as there was no doubt but that the man's mind was weak.

When they finally convinced the man that they could not lawfully receive him the man left the prison with his charge and said he was going to see the probate judge. When Noble was discharged at the expiration of his two former sentences he insulted several ladies, and was considered a dangerous character to be at large. He wanted to stay at the prison when he was released the last time. He was anxious to come to the prison.

TARRED AND FEATHERED.

Punishment Meted Out to Two Women at Mt. Blanchard.

Findlay, Aug. 11.—Several months ago Mrs. Anna Ritter and sister were arrested at Mt. Blanchard, this county, and fined for keeping a house of ill repute. They could not pay the fine and had to go to jail, but were subsequently released on a promise to leave the county. It appears they located near Carey, Wyandot county, but have been frequently visiting Mt. Blanchard after night. This so enraged the citizens that they captured the two women, and stripping them of all their clothing, gave them a coat of tar and feathers and then rolled them in the dust in the road. The buggy seat was also tarred, the two females put into it, and the rig started toward Carey. They were arrested at that place and are now in jail. There is great excitement at Mt. Blanchard over the affair.

MANY DYING.

A New Disease Troubling the People of New Jersey.

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 11.—An epidemic prevails at Helmetta, near New Brunswick, which has already claimed 20 victims. More than 50 people have been stricken.

Physicians are puzzled over the peculiar character of the disease, which is much like dysentery, but far more severe, and many fear that it is cholera, as there are many Russians employed in the factories there.

The disease has spread to Spottswood, a village a few miles from Helmetta, where a number of people who work in Helmetta live. Several people are ill at that place, though none have died.

There are said to be 100,000 lilies in full bloom in a field in Bermuda.

Rev. S. D. Hutsinpiller, of St. Paul's M. E. church, has received a very flattering call to the North Avenue M. E. church in Alleghany, with a decided increase in salary, an assistant, etc., but owing to the cordial treatment of the official board and their unanimous sentiment and desire to retain him for his full five years, beside his great interest in his church and Toledo, he has declined to accept, which decision will be received with satisfaction by his large number of friends in the city.

There are single pieces of this gigantic machine that weigh 18 tons and the combined weight is over 400 tons.

Superintendent Cotter informed a Bee this morning that the work on the walls of the engine house was being pushed with as much dispatch as possible, and that the entire plant would be under roof ready for operation before winter.

WILL COME TO TOLEDO

With the Next Meeting of the Ohio B. and L. Association.

The annual meeting of the Ohio Building and Loan association league closed at Cleveland last night. An invitation was extended to the organization to meet in Toledo next year, and the same was accepted with thanks. Officers were all re-elected as follows: A. A. Winters, of Dayton, president; Henry Stueve, of Cincinnati, first vice-president; Harry M. Farnsworth, of Cleveland, second vice-president; E. R. Hiett, of Toledo, secretary, and L. M. Studevant, of Sidney, treasurer.

Secretary Hiett's financial report showed a balance on hand after deducting bills due but not paid of $603.66. A resolution was adopted to the effect that it was the sense of the convention that the Clapp bill, providing for a tax on mortgages was an ill-advised measure and should not become a law. Another resolution expressing the league's appreciation of the work of the state bureau of building associations was also adopted unanimously.

NEVER TIRE OF FISH.

Such is the Verdict of the People at Island Park Assembly.

The Bee last evening gave a telegram from Rev. Dr. Love relative to the lecture by Rev. Dr. Fish, of this city, at the Island Park assembly. The following is taken from the regular correspondence from the place in the Fort Wayne Journal:

We've kept telling your readers, Mr. Editor, that this would be the grandest day on the program, and so it was. We thought we had measured Dr. Fish aright—an orator and preacher of the gospel whose power had not been fully felt on the Island Park platform. His topic today was "Great Musicians," and while I am not a great musician—at least my neighbors say I'm not—I am proud that I love music, and esteem the man who can say so many grand words about music and musicians. He held his audience better than any speaker who has "filled" on the program, and this is saying a great deal when we think of Bain, Gunsaulus, Conwell and others. He entertained, enthused, instructed and enraptured his audience. He left them at the end of his lecture with applause akin to an encore. Some speakers we can pick out and brief the good things they say, but we admit this as a "bigger Fish" than we baited for, and we have caught a few this year. His personation was fine. He turned to the music stand and praised it in eloquent words, and one by one the orchestral instruments were laid at his feet until the rostrum before him looked like a perambulating musical instrument establishment. The audience fairly raised afoot as the speaker crowned these combined sweet singers with wreaths of eloquence. Ah, how grandly he whetted the appetite for the grand oratorio of "The Creation," which took place this evening. Had the people known the rich treats in store for them, the auditorium would not have held the crowd.

Rev. A. J. Fish, D. D., is pastor of one of the prominent M. E. churches in Toledo, Ohio, and a friend of all Island Parkers. The universal verdict is, "We want him next year." Our people never tire of Fish.

STILL WHISTLING.

There Is No Need of It Many River Men Say.

It looks as if many of the owners or employes on steam craft on the river blew their whistles out of pure cussedness. People with due regard for others would not thus act, and it is to be hoped they will "take a tumble," so to speak. Most if not all of the railroad managers have put a stop to the indiscriminate blowing in the yards, and this same rule applied to the river would give eminent satisfaction. Here's a complaint found in the New York Tribune, which a Toledo gentleman hands the Bee, as expressing his sentiments, and he adds that all residents in lower and upper town would rejoice if the dear brethren on the river would enjoy themselves in some other manner than by letting loose the steam valve:

Cannot some method be devised whereby the intolerable nuisance caused by the simply infernal screeching, bellowing and howling of steam whistles on the river at night shall be modified? The actual, necessary whistles are not complained of; these are irritating enough, but are short-lived; but it is the deep, continued roars and screeches against which, I, for one, as a sufferer, protest. The civil powers of Brooklyn and New York have suppressed the unseasonable cries of street-venders, as being detrimental to the health of the nervous, the invalids and others, and the writer sees no reason why these needless noises on the river, during the hours of rest, shall not be controlled also. Scarcely has a moment passed while this note has been in writing, that one or the other of these fierce, howling roars has not been heard, and I only voice the complaint of many sufferers, in the hope that this form of nuisance may be abated.

'RAH FOR THE RESERVES

Great Enthusiasm Shown by the Prospective Sailors

At To-Night's Meeting the Required Number of Names Will be Secured—Col. Bonner Has a Few Words to Say.

Those interested in the formation of the naval reserve will meet at the Ohio Yacht club's city rooms at 8 o'clock this evening, when the list of 100 names to be forwarded to the governor will be filled out.

Col. J. C. Bonner was seen by a Bee to-day.

"How are the naval reserves progressing?" was asked of him.

"Far beyond our expectations. It seems to be the talk on the streets. Many business and professional men and a fine class of young men are taking a strong interest in the matter, and applications for membership are pouring in rapidly.

"It looks as if we would secure the required number of names at to-night's meeting.

"It will be a grand thing for those fortunate enough to become members, and also for the city. It will have the effect too of awkening interest in yachting matters in the city, as it will turn out some good sailors."

When the reserves have bloomed out in all the glory of duck trousers, broad collared shirts and jaunty caps, Toledo will possess three bodies that will compete with the whole country when they go to the world's fair—the Toledo Cadets on wheels, Battery D of the only regiment of artillery outside of the regulars, and the Naval Reserves, the only organization of the kind on the lake front and the second in the United States. There is no doubt about it—the Future Great will be found way up in front, leading them all.

LITTLE KATIE KECK,

The Golden-Haired, Blue-Eyed Prisoner

Arraigned in Police Court This Morning—The Case Will go to the Probate Court.

Little Katie Keck was arraigned in police court this morning charged with entering a house on Canton avenue and stealing some $25 or $30 from Mary Garick.

Katie is a pretty little girl of 11 years. She took the prisoner's chair in the court room and faced he court officials without flinching. She looked strangely out of place. The child has big blue eyes and a wealth of golden hair falling over her shoulders. It is possible she does not realize the seriousness of the crime she is charged with. At any rate she is as calm and collected as a child at a garden party.

Gen. P. S. Slevin, of the advisory board, was present at the trial. Judge Sala explained that the court could make final disposition of cases where young boys were the defendants, but in the case of a girl of Katie's age the case would have to be taken to the probate court for final disposition. Katie would have to go to jail while waiting trial.

Gen. Slevin asked the court if something couldn't be done to keep the girl out of jail, as it was a poor place to put the child. He asked that she be left in the charge of the police matron.

The judge said it was irregular, but he thought it could be arranged.

How it is Progressing in Both Courts.

Motions for a New Trial and Arrest of Judgemnt Overruled—Bound Over in the U. S. Court.

In the case of J. K. Elderkin, charged with not allowing the state officials to examine his books, the defendant's attorneys in police court this morning filed a motion in arrest of judgment, it being held that the court had no legal authority to inquire into the said supposed offense charged, and that facts stated in the information did not constitute an offense under the laws of the state.

This motion was also overruled and exceptions noted.

They also filed a motion for a new trial because the verdict was not sustained by sufficient evidence, and was also contrary to law, and because of errors of law occurring and during trial.

The motion was overruled and exceptions noted.

J. K. Elderkin had a hearing before Commissioner Beckham yesterday afternoon, on the charge of using the mails to defraud and was bound over to the United States grand jury, bail being fixed at $300.

"Our little adopted daughter, seventeen months old, weighs 28 1-2 pounds and is a very healthy, happy child. She owes health to lactated food. It agrees with her in every respect, keeping the bowels regular. I can recommend it for keeping the bowels regular and being the best food for bottle babies. Baby is the picture of health and knows nothing of the diseases children usually suffer from while teething."

One grows very, very tired of hearing the sunshine and the rain, the good green grass and the golden grain sheaves, charged up to the cred't of a man-made tax law.

When some of the New Englanders gaze aloft at Pike's Peak for the first time, if they don't say, "Wa'l, I swow, Marier," the story book writers will feel put out.

Murat Halstead, with his name top and bottom and his picture in the middle, says, "It is conceded that Harrison 'may' carry Indiana again." Wonderful concession!

Imagine the crowd of K. T.'s in the Garden of the Gods. If some of the stony old giants don't break the crust of centuries and smile on 'em it will be because they can't.

Grumbling, inconsistent republicans. They call democrats soldier-haters in one breath (forgetting, of course, that the majority of union soldiers were democrats), and in the next breath they score the democratic congress for increasing the pension appropriation $31,000,000.

Two facts to call to mind now and then are, that the democrats left a treasury overflowing with funds when the Cleveland administration went out; and the democratic congress came in finding empty coffers, and deficiencies to meet, the result of two years of republican rule.

In looking the situation over calmly, the Ohio field marshal concludes that: "Platt's remarkable political information and skill are valuable, but not indispensable." If Mister Platt should see fit, any day, to let fly his "valuable political information" his party would be hustling to seek cover.

And still the question: if a tariff law makes prices lower to the consumer of manufactured goods and raises the prices of agricultural products, why do manufacturers clamor for it and fight to maintain it?—still this question gets weary-legged, going around and asking vainly for an answer.

The populists want government to take control of the railroads. Pray, and in what railroad deals with which it has been connected, has the government shown signs of honesty and efficiency, and a regard for the people's rights? Where is the warrant for trusting government with any more monopolies than it now has under management?

We are just crazy to know, you know, if the glasses of the Marsians were pointing at us and our planet the way we were squinting at them; and if they found anything more than canals, waterways and snow belts on our surface? Just come this way pretty soon again, thou red-eyed son of a heathen god, and give us another whack at you.

When negroes vote the republican ticket in "blocks" of various sizes, it is all straight goods. When the democrats persuade them, it is fraud and bribery on the face of it. Listen to the organs on the Alabama election. It is too dreadful that a southern state should go democratic by the aid of the "black belt." It is enough to resurrect the force bill from the pockets of campaign leaders.

Funny bit of politics, that when Knute Nelson, republican candidate for governor of Minnesota, gets complimented with the fact that he voted for the Mills bill, some organ tunes up for his rescue, saying, "the McKinley bill has a larger free list than the Mills bill, so what o' that?" Then following on, another organ pitches into the Mills bill as the "free traders' infamous attempt to tear down our American industries." What logical conclusion follows these premises?

The New York Tribune assures the country that, of its 4,000 millionaires, carefully listed, it is said, for the benefit of the republican campaign committee, only 1,125 made their money in protected industries. At this exposure, the Detroit Evening News exclaims, "What a failure protection must be after all, when three men out of four can make their millions without it." Wouldn't it be a good plan to let that fourth man take his chances with the rest of people? It is pretty expensive business for such comparatively small returns.

THE STARS AND STRIPES ALOFT.

It is eminently proper that the flags of victory should float over the walls of the iron and steel forts of Carnegie. Under the protection of the government the giant monopoly has been builded and riveted, till the weight of it bids fair to crush heart and hope out of the lives of its upholders and tribute givers. Then the sight of these victory flags will exasperate the Homesteaders, and the erection of new houses and better quarters will show to the evicted and locked-out men, that the plea of bankruptcy if their wages were not cut down was but a cover for the work they had determined upon. By all means let the victory flags float, and let their significance be not misunderstood.

THE FREE MAN'S WEAPON OF DEFENSE.

The laboring men of America will learn last the lesson they should have learned first, namely, that with United States laws all enacted in favor of, and under the instruction of capitalists, they have small show for equal rights. And outside of legal measures, the people of the country cannot support or approve their attempts to coerce justice. For twenty-five years they have been permitting and aiding in the growth of this condition of master and serf. The ballot is their weapon of defense, and until that shall utterly fail them, they are not justified in the use of any other. If this is not the truth, then free representative government is a failure, through the blindness and ignorance on one hand, and the greed, trickery and inhumanity on the other, of the people governed. Now and forevermore until the nature of man is regenerated, is eternal vigilance the price of liberty. A free people must be a serious and a thoughtful people, and never before, in the history of our country, has there been a time when serious thought was more necessary than in the present campaign of freedom against oppression, the rights of the many against the privileges of the few.

GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT.

It is a daring man who, at a time like this, is bold enough to proclaim that this country has anything to learn from the people of the United Kingdom of Great Britain, which is held up continually by the small partisan newspapers as an oligarchy of oppression, unmindful of the welfare of its own people and powerful enough to tear other nations in shreds, if there were not bristling, barbed-wire walls built about them.

For those whose reading is confined to the narrowness of such prints there are many revelations, if they get their eyes open wide enough to take a survey of the "field of the world." The model city governments of the age are "over there." The worst on the continents of civilization are in the United States of America.

Mr. Moorfield Story, in quite an exhaustive paper in the New England Magazine, repeats, in good form what many old-world tourists and correspondents have written home in their most vivid impressions, namely, the splendid municipal government of the cities of Glasgow, London, Liverpool and Birmingham. Some of the chief points are condensed as follows:

In Glasgow, which is a city densely built and with a population of 675,000, the public health is secured by a large force of trained inspectors, who look after infectious diseases, examine drains, etc., and others, who are women, go from house to house among poor families and make suggestins as to housekeeping methods. How these inspectors would be received in poor American families is difficult to say. Other inspectors visit lodging houses at night to see that they are not over-crowded. There are admirable hospitals, disinfecting wash-houses and houses for the reception of families while their homes are being disinfected. At a cost of $370,000 a year all the streets and private courts are swept every night and these sweepings are sold for fertilizers, bringing in the sum of $180,000 a year. Slums and overcrowded neighborhoods have been bought up bodily by the city, tenements razed, streets widened and parks and squares planted and the remnant of property sold for prices which greatly reduced the cost of the improvements. Some of the old tenements were replaced by new ones owned and conducted by the city, these containing some two thousand beds and accommodating annually seven hundred thousand lodgers, at a charge of from 6 to 9 cents a night. This, after furnishing many conveniences, pays a net income of four or five per cent on the city's investment and has raised the standard of lodging houses. Public baths are, of course, maintained, and in addition public wash-houses, provided with every improved appliance which women, for two pence per hour, can use to do their week's wash and save their homes from an intolerable discomfort.

The city manufactures its own gas, which it uses lavishly and sells at 66 cents, making an enormous profit on that price. The city also owns the street railways and lets them to a company at a great profit. Fares are fixed at a penny a mile, with reduced rates at certain times. In two more years the sinking fund will equal the cost of the tramways and the city will own the property clear. The waterworks show the results of management equally intelligent. Time would fail to tell of like wonders in the city of Birmingham.

This is government, patriarchal; pure and simple, and no large American city has yet been equal to it.

Two weeks in the pleasant month of May are given the toilers in factories and shops for vacation, and hours are shortened for all work people. These are called the "holiday fair weeks." Rates are reduced on all roads leading to the popular resorts and entrance to galleries and museums are free on certain days, for their benefit.

In the face of this showing looms up the fact that whatever enterprises are taken in hand by our cities, are no improvement in management and outcome over those in the hands of private corporations. It is humiliating to have occasion to wonder if our people are a nation of such tricksters and cheats, that singly or collectively, independently or clothed with municipal dignity and power, they cannot be trusted to perform public tasks.

Toledo is one of the places and the present is the time to consider these things seriously. The present form of municipal control has borne its fruits. The Bee advocates, and has advocated for many months, a change of methods. It has presented often and again the plan of a responsible general board of control in place of petty, irresponsible boards, which are simply so many parts of a political machine. Its suggestions have been sneered at as "ripper bills," to try to prejudice the public mind. People are pretty well persuaded that some "ripping" is necessary, and the Bee again takes up the subject, in favor of thorough reform of the city government. There must be some system that involves direct responsibility and strict accountability.

The writers of campaign songs are instructed to rhyme "Adlai" with "gladly," not with "hooray." The "hooray" poets will gladly acquiesce, now they know about it. The one which sends the best campaign song to the New York World before Oct. 1 will get a prize of $500. The World must have a facetious sort of an editor tucked away there somewhere. Think of what a shower bath he has pulled the string on.

TOLEDO VICTORIOUS.

The Team Championship of the State

Captured In a Tussle With the North Baltimore Gun Club—The $300 Cup Won—A Challenge From Columbus Accepted

Yesterday afternoon the Toledo trapshooting team, consisting of Geo. Osborn, G. A. Spross, H. C. Rushmore and J. S. Acklin, won the state championship and the Sporting Review $300 silver cup in a contest with the North Baltimore team at that place.

The North Baltimore team was composed of Messrs. Clark, Peters, Calsse and Hamilton.

The scores were: Toledo 167, North Baltimore 150, out of a possible 200 each. The scores would have been much better had it not been for the wind and rain.

The Toledo team was immediately challenged by the Sherman Gun club of Columbus.

The cup is a beauty. It was put up as the championship trophy May, 1891, by Mr. J. H. Robbins, editor of the Sporting Review of Chicago, the official organ of the league.

All contests for the cup are limited to teams of four men, one team only in a club. The club holding the team trophy shall be subject to challenge, and said challenge shall be accepted and match shot within 30 days after date thereof. Should the challenged team or club fail or neglect to accept challenge or to have their team at appointed place at time agreed upon to shoot, they shall immediately after deliver to the challenging team the said team trophy, and the challenging team shall have and hold it the same as if the match had been shot and won by them.

The match between Toledo and Columbus will come off shortly, but the time and place have not been fixed.

FIRST ASSISTANT P. M. G.

What's the Reason Toledo Should Not Have the Berth?

Some Elements in Postmaster Brown's Character That Would Make Him an Official Not to be Sneezed At.

The information given in last night's Bee that Postmaster Brown's friends were pushing him for the First Assistant Postmaster General's office was rather a surprise to the great body of republican politicians, and especially to those who are not on the inside since the advent of the Harrison administration. Of course, the usual back-capping incident to politics in Toledo will now begin in dead earnest, and the road to success made rather more rocky than if the race was allowed to be conducted on the q. t. Mr. Brown, however, is a match for all the anti-Brownites, if put together, as has been developed in many contests in the past.

It is said that the finishing touches will be put to the valiant postmaster's canvass when Secretary Charles Foster arrives in Toledo next Monday, although he has been made aware of the progress thus far, while attending to his private business at Fostoria. It is probably true that Mr. Foster is not as big a power with the president as he was prior to the Minneapolis convention, yet the genial Charley cannot be ignored, especially until after the November election, as he has the strings at command to bring to the campaign coffers many shekels that under other circumstances would not reach the spot.

The principal element of strength in favor of Mr. Brown is that he did not get to Minneapolis, hence he is free from the peculiar escapades of the Ohio delegation at that "meet." Had he been on deck, however, it is likely he would have kept Mr. Tucker in line, at least, as he and Col. Waldorf did at Cleveland when the state convention was held. The postmaster's fighting qualities, shown at Chicago four years ago, are not forgotten. It will be remembered that when the Sherman forces were wavering, he jumped on the table at Ohio headquarters, and gave Gov. Foraker, previously an intimate friend, a scoring for his conduct, which almost provoked a personal combat. His famous words, that "the man who deserted Sherman would be forwarded to his home a political corpse," had an electrical effect, and only one man in the delegation, Jim Luckey, had the hardihood to become the aforesaid corpse by voting for Harrison. In Luckey's case, at any rate, the sequel shows that he has been off the earth politically ever since, and will possibly remain so until he repents, like the Israelites of old, in sackcloth and ashes, for his disobedience to the mandates of the ruling clan and its chief, James M. Brown.

Another element of strength for Mr. Brown is the fact that the retiring officer was an Ohio man, and the Buckeye state, in the regular order of things, ought to be entitled to the succession. There is no doubt as to Mr. Brown's ability. At the recent convention of postmasters in Washington, the Toledo gentleman was at the head of the business committee, and suggested many measures for action by congress that will add greatly to the proficiency of the service. This fact, with the well-known political hustling qualities of Mr. B., give his candidacy an impetus that cannot fail to cause serious consideration of his claims, and whether he finally secures the plum or not, he will bother the powers that be in arriving at a conclusion.

With John Wanamaker's private secretary out of the way, Mr. Brown would likely have little difficulty in flooring Major Rathbone, who is about as near a nonentity as one can well be, although, judging from the major's claims, he at least does not so regard himself.

As stated yesterday, Toledo is for Jim Brown, and the Bee, in common with all lovers of the city, will be glad to hear of his appointment. The place belongs to Ohio, and why shall it not be James M. Brown, First Assistant Postmaster General?

THE IRISH ELECTIONS.

P. H. Degnan Was in the Midst of the Battle.

Tim Healy the Worst Detested Man In Ireland — The Situation as Seen by a Business Man.

Mr. P. H. Degnan, who has just returned from an extensive visit to Ireland, tells some interesting stories of the Old Sod, and particularly of the recent elections.

The ex-alderman, talking with a Bee this morning, said the feeling in Ireland between the McCarthyites and Parnellites is very bitter.

Outside of Dublin city, which is the Parnellite stronghold, the McCarthyites control about everything.

Mr. Degnan was present at 11 elections, and says we know practically nothing of excitement during a presidential campaign compared with the excitement there.

Member of Parliament Crilly, formerly one of the ablest of Parnell's lieutenants, is a relative of Mr. Degnan, and has been returned to parliament as a McCarthyite.

"I was present during the Dublin elections," Mr. Degnan said, "and the excitement was intense. Tim Healy is as badly detested by the Parnellites that it was customary to see him burned in effigy on the public streets. I saw an immense crowd in front of the Times building burn him in effigy one night when I thought a riot would result.

"The defeat of T. D. Sullivan, the poet-editor of the old National, was a misfortune for Ireland's cause, but he will be heard in parliament, as he was promptly given a reserved seat in a safe county—Donegal."

"How is Ireland, anyway, and how does she stand?"

"Well, I noticed very little change. There is evidence of but little improvement among the people. The strangest thing about it is that the people bear with their misery and misfortune so patiently. In many localities the people are in a worse condition than they were 30 or 40 years ago."

"What is the general opinion relative to the success of home rule?"

"Oh, it is coming. Gladstone has got a good working majority, and will push his home rule bill through, I have no doubt. They talk about the smallness of Gladstone's majority in parliament. It is better, perhaps, than if it were larger. A very large majority is unwieldy and often less useful than a small one, and while the house of lords will object, undoubtedly, to Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill, yet he will eventually succeed in restoring to Ireland her lost independence."

Mr. Degnan looks hale and hearty, and says he had a very enjoyable trip.

NO AMERICAN CARDINAL.

London, Aug. 11.—The Chronicle's Rome correspondent says: The pope's desire to make an American cardinal at the next consistory has been frustrated by the divergence of views of Archbishops Corrigan and Ireland. The pope has resolved to appoint the Very Rev. Charles John Vaughan, bishop of Westminster, to the cardinalate at the earliest opportunity.

HARRY KERNELL,

The Great Irish Commedian's Mind is Unbalanced.

New York, Aug. 11.—The New York Sun says this morning that news came from Ashbury Park last night that Harry Kernell, the noted Irish comedian, has become mentally unbalanced, to the great concern of his relatives and friends at that watering place.

It had been rumored for some time that Kernell had given unmistakable signs of mental collapse and an actor who visited him quite recently said last night that his condition both mentally and physically had undergone complete change.

His cheeks are sunken, his eyes dull and his demeanor has altered entirely, being either moody or silent, where formerly he was always jovial and cheerful.

BOUND TO HAVE THE ASYLUM.

Massillon, O., Aug. 11.—The commission appointed by Governor McKinley to decide upon a location for the new eastern Ohio insane asylum, is scheduled to make its second visit to this city on Friday.

Upon their arrival the board of trade will tender them as a donation a tract of as fine farm land as lies out of doors, containing two hundred and four acres, as an inducement to locate the asylum at this point.

The land will cost upwards of $30,000, the money having been realized from the sale of city improvement bonds issued to the amount of $50,000 and diverted to this purpose the board of trade executive committee.

WORLD'S FAIR SOUVENIR COINS.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—The treasurer of the world's fair received a bid of $4,000,000 for the $2,500,000 in souvenir half dollars voted by congress. The bidder is Leon Talton, of this city. Bids of $150 for the first of the souvenir coins minted have also been made.

ARTILLERY CAMP.

Battery D Off for Camp Buckeye, at Newark,

Where They Will Spend a Week and Test the New Permanent Camp Ground.

Battery D, numbering over sixty men under Capt. Geoge U. Roulet, left this morning at 7:30 for Newark, where the Twelfth regiment light artillery will spend a week in camp. The battery started over the W. & L. E. road, which carried them as far as Monroeville. There they boarded a special train on the Baltimore & Ohio, which will take them to camp. At Chicago Junction they were joined by Battery A, of Cleveland, and Battery F, of Akron, and the three batteries proceeded to camp together, arriving about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Advance squads from the different batteries, with the guns, were sent on ahead several days ago, and they have the camp all in good shape so that the regiment at once went into comfortable quarters.

This is the first camp on the ground that is to be the permanent camping place of the Ohio National guard.

A Bee accompanied Battery D, and will keep their friends at home well posted on the doings of the boys and the events of the camp.

Shot by Patrolman Olms for Seemingly Nothing.

A Matter That Should Receive Immediate Investigation—A Gun in Green Hands Can do Damage.

Something happened last evening that will bear the closest investigation, and if the perpetrator is guilty he should be dealt with severely. It seems that last night Patrolman Olms shot Edward P. Gavin, a young boy, under circumstances that would hardly warrant the action.

Young Gavin, with John Robinson and Eugene Lynch, were standing in front of Robinson's house on Sparrow lane, they say, when someone suggested that they go down town. Robinson had no coat on, and he told them to wait until he went in the house and got it. He joined his companions soon, and they proceeded toward South Railroad avenue, when they were hailed by Olms, who cried out to them to stop. The boys were scared and they ran, the policeman giving chase. Olms fired his revolver at the fleeing boys a number of times, and two shots took effect, wounding Eddie Gavin in the right leg and left ankle. The boy fell to the ground, and it was thought that he was killed. As it was, it was a narrow escape, for the hasty officer evidently meant business.

The injured boy was taken into a store near by and Olms called the patrol. The people who had gathered insisted that the boy be taken to his home, 240 Jervis street.

The report of Patrolman Olms to the night sergeant and submitted to Chief Raitz this morning gave Olms' statement as follows:

I found four men in the rear of a lot and thought they were thieves. When I spoke to them they gave me sass and ran away. I followed and fired two shots, but they went over fences and through alleys and got away. I continued the search and found them later at the corner of Sparrow lane and Segur avenue. They sassed me some more and ran again. I followed and fired the revolver again."

The result of the last two shots is told above. There is no doubt about it but that the boys should have stopped, if the officer ordered them to do so. On the other hand, citizens have rights also, and a police officer should never use his revolver unless compelled to do so in a pinch. If he tries to catch boys and is too slow to do so, what would be his fate if he had to cope with desperate burglars?

A gun in the hands of a green policeman can do irreparable damage. Young Gavin is getting along all right, but he had a close call.

Up to 10 o'clock this morning no investigation had been made at the police station. It is a matter that should receive instant attention. The indignation of residents of the ward is great, and nothing short of a complete investigation will satisfy them.

COCKING MAIN.

Twenty-Two Battles Fought on the Creek.

It Was Findlay and Detroit Against Toledo, and the Latter Was Badly Beaten.

Ten Mile creek, not a hundred miles from the Lagrange street bridge, was last evening the scene of the closing battles in one of the greatest cocking mains ever fought here.

Detroit and Findlay sports brought 11 birds here, and Sunday morning a series of 22 battles for $50 a side was commenced.

The affair, of course, was on the quiet, as some of the outsiders who do not understand the present condition of municipal affairs were afraid the police might tumble, and that there would be trouble.

The first battle began at 6:15 Sunday morning, and between that and 11 o'clock 16 battles were fought. Of the 16 the Detroit-Findlay combination won 10.

At that time an alarm was sent in that the patrol wagon was coming, and although the alarm proved false it was considered wise to postpone the balance of the battles.

Last night the remaining six were fought out, and out of the six Toledo only secured one fight.

The birds were very game. Fifteen were killed in the ring, while ten were so badly disabled that it was found necessary to wring their necks.

The old-time sport is being revived, and the sports seem to wak the other eye at the police. In fact, the police are non est.

THE CARPENTERS

Had a Rousing Meeting Last Evening.

"Strength In Unity" the Text of Ringing Speeches by Messrs. Booth and Fellows.

The open meeting held at Carpenters' hall, last night, under the auspices of Carpenters' and Joiners' Union, No. 25, had been well advertised, and when the meeting opened the hall was filled, there being quite a number of non-union men in the audience.

The friends of organized labor believe that if many men outside the unions understood the benefits to be derived from identifying themselves with a union, they would no longer hesitate about putting themselves on record as union men. The prime object of the meeting last night was to have the objects and aims of organized labor explained more fully, and the Carpenters added several new names to their membership roll as the result of the convincing arguments made by the speakers.

Mr. Fellows was the first speaker. He took up the Homestead strike, as the matter that is causing greatest agitation in labor circles at present. There are lessons to be learned from this great struggle between capital and labor that every laborer should study. A strike is always to be deplored, all good union men should study how to avert such a tragedy as has just been enacted at Homestead. It seems to those who have made this problem one of careful investigation, that the only way to prevent strikes and lock-outs, is for the laborers of the nation to become united. When the laboring men of the nation unite for fair pay, and fair treatment, they will get what they ask for, and receive the respect they command. We should have laws compelling capitalists to arbitrate in matters of this kind. There is no reason why difficulties between employe and employer should not be amicably adjusted by arbitration when troubles between nations are settled in this way.

President Booth, of the Central Labor union was the next speaker. As Mr. Booth has been out of the city, he had not prepared a studied speech, but his extempore remarks were to the point, and received hearty applause.

At the bottom of all labor troubles is the question of supply and demand. If the supply of labor could be controlled, labor organizations could hold their own. To do this, not 20, 30 or 50 per cent. of the laborers of this country must belong to unions, but every one of them. If every iron worker in the United States belonged to the Amalgamated association, the company would have been glad to arbitrate the difficulty. The laboring men of his country are standing in their own light. They are largely to blame for their own troubles. Union men must be conservative. Good union men will not join the militia. In the militia that went to Homestead, there were many union men. In time of war, but little dependence could be put on the militia or standing army; they are only an item of expense. In Ohio, the workingmen have a law that excludes Pinkertons. The Pennsylvania laborer is behind us in that respect.

At the close of Mr. Booth's address there were short speeches made by others present.

The meeting was successful and interesting, and it is likely open meetings will become popular with other unions. They are good educators.

"Prof." House and "Bishop" Campbell's Plans

Are Emphatically Set Down Upon by the Colored Brethren of Cleveland.

Almost everyone, and particularly every politician in this city, remembers "Professor" House and "Bishop" Campbell, the colored political-religious combination, who have been making Toledo their home for some years.

The following from to-day's Leader shows how a little plan of their's has been prematurely nipped in the bud by the colored people of Cleveland:

A meeting of Afro-American citizens was held in the city clerk's office last evening to take action concerning an enterprise started by two young men of their race. Two colored men known as Bishop Campbell and Professor House recently came to Cleveland from Toledo, and they have been obtaining subscriptions for a manual training school for colored children, which they say will be opened by them in September. Rev. R. A. Collins announced in explaining the object of the meeting: "Our purpose is to consider the actions of Bishop Campbell and Professor House in soliciting subscriptions for a manual training school. I will read a statement of the case, which explains the matter better, perhaps, than I could do offhand. It is for you to consider whether you want this expensive luxury foisted upon you. If the colored youth of the city do not attend a school already provided by the public, it is their own fault. Rev. Mr. Collins then read the following statement:

"About two months ago it was announced through the newspapers that 'Bishop' Campbell and 'Professor' House and other colored men would soon open in this city a manual training school for colored youth. The two persons named, the former a resident of Toledo, the latter a whilom resident of Detroit and other cities, being such recent arrivals in the city, little credence was given the notice at the time by the Afro-American residents of Cleveland. It has since been learned that the persons named have been industriously soliciting subscriptions from our generous white friends in this city and taking other unnecessary and really unwarranted (as we will show later on) steps to accomplish their object. Without consulting our leading or any considerable number of our Afro-American citizens, and without stopping to learn how unnecessary was the establishment of this particular kind of a class institution in this city, the persons named went to work. The undersigned desire to protest against the establishment of a manual training school for colored youth in this city, first, because it is not needed, there being institutions of the kind here open to our youth in common with others; second, because it will be establishing an educational institution in which a colored line is to be drawn, to which the Afro-Americans of Cleveland are most decidedly opposed; third, because the men in charge of the movement are not, by any means, such persons as our people would select or intrust with such an undertaking. We warn our white friends who have subscribed funds to withhold them and to notify their friends that no further encouragement may be given to the Campbell-House movement; also if possible to secure a return of all moneys paid. If there be those who still have any doubts as to the wisdom of paying money subscribed we respectfully request a careful scrutiny of the records of 'Bishop' Campbell and 'Professor' House, particularly the latter, before paying amount subscribed."

After the meeting the following names were signed to the statement: Elder W. Peters, Rev. R. A. Collins, Rev. Mr. Hall, Rev. Mr. Bell, Rev. Mr. Bowles, Rev. Mr. Bradley, Rev. Mr. Bryant

WHATEVER IS—IS BEST.

I know as my life grows older,
And mine eyes have clearer sight,
That under each rank wrong, somewhere
There lies the root of Right;
That each sorrow has its purpose,
By the sorrowing oft unguessed,
But as sure as the sun brings morning,
Whatever is—is best.

I know that each sinful action,
As sure as the night brings shade,
Is somewhere, sometime punished,
Tho' the hour be long delayed,
I know that the soul is aided
Sometimes by the heart's unrest,
And to grow means often to suffer—
But whatever is—is best.

I know there are no errors
In the great eternal plan,
And all things work together
For the final good of man,
And I know when my soul speeds onward
In its grand eternal quest,
I shall say, as I look back earthward,
Whatever is—is best.

THE OLD PROFESSOR.

The extent to which theory often fails in practice is furnished by a venerated professor, a most distinguished mathematician, whose works are still used as textbooks in many of our institutions, and which occurred within the compass of our own experience.

He went to Bethel, Maine; on his return he spent the Sabbath in Lewiston. Monday morning he was told the horse was sick. Nevertheless he started. The horse went a few rods, fell down and broke both thills. He then sent his wife home, and also sent to Brunswick for another horse and carriage to take him and the broken chaise home.

When the driver came they lashed the two vehicles together and started. All went well till they came to the first long steep hill between Lewiston and Brunswick. On its summit they held a consultation. The professor said: "Mr. Chandler, it is too much for the horse to hold these two carriages on this steep descent; take the horse out; I will get into the shafts."

"Professor," cried Chandler, "the breeching is strong."

"But the horse, Mr. Chandler; it is too much for the horse. Besides I know how to take advantage of the descent, and can manage it much better than the horse."

"If the horse can't hold it you can't."

"Do you, sir, intend to place me, in point of intelligence and knowledge of mechanical forces, below a horse? I have made mathematics the study of a life time."

"I have no intention to be disrespectful, sir; but I know that horse understands his own business, which is handling a load on a hill. I was sent up here by my employer to take care of his property, and if you prefer to be horse yourself I cannot be responsible."

"I," replied the professor, "will assume all responsibility."

The driver, nothing loath to witness the operation, took out the horse and held him by the bridle; and the professor, getting into the shafts, took hold of them at the ends. The forward carriage was just descending the hill and the hinder one a little over the summit, when the professor trod on a rolling stone, which caused him to plunge forward, and increase his velocity so much that he was forced to walk faster and exchange the slanting position—with his shoulders thrown well back and his feet braced—which he had first adopted for a perpendicular one. Soon he was pushed into a run, the carriages going at a fearful rate.

At the bottom of the hill was a brook; on each side, precipitous banks. The professor was between Scylla and Charybdis, going six feet at a lean. In order to cramp the forward wheel, he turned suddenly to the right. The shafts of the forward carriage went two feet into the bank, breaking the thills of both of them short off; the lashing of the hinder one slipped, and it ran into the forward one, breaking the fender, and both vehicles turned over at the bottom of the hill with a tremendous crash; the learned gentleman described a parabola—one of his favorite figures—and landed two rods away. He rose from the earth, his knees skinned, pants torn, a piece of skin knocked off his forehead, and his best hat flat as a pancake underneath the hind carriage; and, looking around, said:

"Is it possible I could have been so much deceived as to the momentum?"

"I don't know anything about momentum," said Chandler, "but I do know something about horses. I know it makes a mighty difference on a steep hill whether the horse has two legs or four, and whether he weighs 175 and 1,200 pounds."

It cost the professor $37.50 to pay the damages.—Our Dumb Animals.

OLD-TIME FAITH CURES.

The Practice of Medicine in the Temples of Ancient Greece.

Since the year 1844, when M. Gauthier reported his "Recherches Historiques sur l'Exercice de la Medecine dans les Temples," a number of studies have been made of sacerdotal medicine among the ancient Greeks. One of the latest of these is by M. Diehl ("Excursions Archaeologiques en Grec, 1891"). These works are noticed in the New York Medical Record, throw an interesting light upon the practice of medicine in olden times, but they particularly show its close resemblance to the faith cures of to-day. The temples of Aesculapius begin to take a prominent part in the social and medical life of the Greeks at about the time of the Trojan war, and they lasted as institutions until 400 A. D. The faith cures of old, therefore, officially endured for about 1,000 years.

The temples of Aesculapius were usually small and modest structures. Like the doctor of to-day, they did not secure great gifts of gold; their reputation was among the poor. They were placed in some salubrious spot, and had attached a corps of priests and attendants. The sick came and were placed on couches in the interior, where, after visitations from the priests, they made their vows and went to sleep. It was expected that the god would visit them in their dreams and either heal them or reveal a way for so doing. If a cure resulted the patient deposited some gift and caused a tablet to be erected describing his disease and its cure, and rendering appropriate thanks to the diety. These gifts and inscriptions remained to ornament the temple and inspire hope and confidence in the hearts of newcomers. Some gave propitiatory offerings, i. e., paid before they were cured. But this seems to have been rather unusual. The ancient Greek was of frugal mind and only paid for what he got.

Archaeologists have collected many of the curious votive tablets from these old faith cure establishments. A Lacedemonian lady had the dropsy. Her mother consulted the god at the temple of Epidaurus and dreamed that she saw him descend, cut off the head of her daughter, then hold up the trunk until all the water run out. She woke up, went home, and found her daughter well. Another tablet describes the dream of a patient who suffered from cancer of the stomach. The god removed the cancer by a neat and painless laparotomy and the patient awoke and was cured. If it could only be done that way now. Naturally the priests became somewhat skillful in the practical and real part of medicine. They saw that their patients received healing drugs and followed hygienic ways of living. It was from some of these practical physicians that Hippocrates learned what little he knew of medical art, expunging from it priestly mysticism and quackery.

As time passed and the ancient religion became more of a conscious deception and means of gain the temples of Esculapius degenerated. They were sometimes started as a business venture by dishonest men, who worked them "for all they were worth," just as is done nowadays. Again, specialism entered the field. The oracle of Delphos, in order to enlarge its revenues, entered the field; the priests of Diana and Ephesus made a specialty of the eyes, and those of the temples of Venus looked after certain kinds of tumors. In order to help along the business later, a great deal of trickery was introduced; finally human credulity could be taxed no further, and the temples were abandoned.

"How so? Can't he get back?"

"That's the trouble. The cornstalk's growing up faster than he can climb down."—Washington Post.

MISFIT MISFIT MISFIT

A CANADIAN STATESMAN

Speaks in London on Home Rule.

Edward Blake, Ex-Premier of Ontario, Loudly Cheered by His Hearers.

London, Aug. 11.—Hon. Edward Blake, formerly premier of Ontario, who was elected in the recent campaign to represent South Longford in parliament, addressed a meeting of the Home Rule union of London. He spoke in the same general manner as he did during the speech which he delivered at the Eighty club dinner given in his honor on Thursday last.

He pointed out the necessity of continued work in order to capture all possible bye-elections for the home rule cause. Viewed in the light of a curious tendency to equality in popular opinion, the liberal majority was a substantial one. Conservative advocates of unity had analyzed and cut the majority into sections, believing that the majority had emanated from Ireland, and herefore did not count.

Would they have said that if circumstances had been reversed and Ireland had been declared against home rule? The liberals must be full of exaggerated accounts of Irish outrages in the tory papers. That was part of their game. If the Protestants in various parts of Ireland were to combine he hoped that they would not—they could get what terms they liked from either side of the divided majority.

He recommended to them an altogether different policy, namely, to banish forever from the arena all religious questions and to join hands with the Catholics and to discuss intelligible differences of opinions instead of the character of their creeds or the color of their hair. Doubtless there would be blunders and friction in inaugurating the new regime in Ireland—bearings would get piled up, pipes burst and steam escape—but that would soon be overcome.

He did not idealize democracy. He believed it was being put to the severest test as to whether it would be able to use its new power with wisdom, self-restraint and discernment, but he hoped it would be equal to the task.

The characteristics of the English nation were steadiness in resolution and energy in action to advance slowly and never to retreat. Therefore, English reforms were durable and blessed.

Let them advance and soon the dawn now visible would blaze into the perfect sunshine of the blessed day of reconciliation for joyful and regenerated Ireland, no longer the weakness of despair and shame, but the strength, the pride and the glory of the United Kingdom.

When Mr. Blake had concluded his address he was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers.

GEN. D'UTASSY.

Insurance Companies Sued on His Life Policies.

Cincinnati, Aug. 11.—Three suits have been brought in the common pleas court against the Mutual Life Insurance company of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, the Eureka Ladge No. 1, Ancient Order of United Workmen, and Pioneer Lodge, Knights of Honor.

The late Gen. George F. D'Utassy was found dead in a Baltimore hotel on May 3 last. He held insurance policies aggregating $67,000. Of this amount his widow has collected $20,000 and the suits are brought by the administrator to apply the money to the payment of debts incurred by deceased, insead of to his widow.

In the petition it is claimed that D'Utassy was insolvent long before his death and notwithstanding the claims of creditors, kept up the enormous premiums on his policies. The face value of the policies in the above mentioned organizations is asked for.

J., Aug. 11.—Patrick Quinn, an operator at the Delaware station of the Western Union Telegraph company, was shot in the head and neck last night by Miss Hattie Acres, of Cresspo, who came all the way from that place with the intention of killing Quinn. She regarded Quinn as her lover. It is said that the shooting was the outcome of Quinn's deserting her.

Immediately after the shooting the young woman swallowed the contents of a bottle containing laudanum. Prompt medical aid soon brought her out of danger. On recovering she asked if Quinn was dead and said it would be better if both were out of the world. Quinn was removed to his home at Oxford. He may recover.

DEEDS OF AN INSANE WOMAN

She Murders Her Two Little Children,

And Then Tries to End Her Life, but is Prevented and Arrested.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 11.—A Pioneer Press, Mankato, Minn., special says: The details of a shocking murder came to light late to-day. The deed was committed at Eagle Lake, a small village six miles from this city, the victims were two small children, and their mother was the murderess, who declared she was glad she killed them, and would do it again.

She is Mrs. Martha Kester, whose husband is a well-to-do stone mason living in Milwaukee. Sunday morning the woman fed milk, poisoned with rough on rats, to her four weeks old babe, and the child died Monday afternoon.

The funeral was in progress yesterday when Constable Minor heard reports that all was not right and suspended the services. Last evening Mrs. Kester took her only other child, aged 2 years, and after trying unsuccessfully to drown him in a barrel of water, carried him a mile and a half to the farm of Joseph Richards, where she tossed her boy down a 70-foot well, drowning him.

Returning to the village she told Druggist Cook what she had done, and tried to drown herself in Lake Madison, but was prevented.

She was arrested on the coroner's warrant, a verdict charging her with murder having been returned by the coroner's jury. The woman was only prevented from committing suicide in the jail by close watching.

TO SEEK NEW FIELDS.

Schweinfurth, the Illinois "Christ," Will Build Himself a Heaven in Iowa.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 11.—Schweinfurth, the Messiah, is about to leave Rockford. It is understood he has entered into negotiations with some property owners a few miles south of Keokuk for the purchase of a large tract of land lying along the Missouri boundary.

He also proposes to buy a like tract of land on the other side of the line. If he succeeds in the purchase of a heaven it will be erected much after the style of the one at Rockford.

As soon as it is completed a twin structure will be built on the Missouri side. The steps so far taken point to one conclusion—the fake "Messiah" intends to go in business in earnest. If the people of Iowa object to the manner in which he gains a following and offer a legal resistance he will move over the line into Missouri. Should the people of Missouri resist his methods, he can move back into Iowa.

The object of the queen in summoning Mr. Gladstone to Osborne house is to entrust to him the formation of a new government. Lord Salisbury is expected at Osborne house to-morrow to tender the resignation of the present government upon the adoption by the house of commons by the "no confidence" amendment to the address in reply to the queen's speech.

THEY WERE DECEIVED.

Colonists Return from Costa Rica.

William A. Narrow Returns and Tells a Tale of Sufferiug and Woe.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 11.—Wm. A. Norrow, of Pennsylvania, returned yesterday from Costa Rica with Gertrude Atwood, 11 years old, of Worcester, they being of a party of colonists who were taken there some three months ago by the "Central American Land Colonization and Mining company, of Hornersville, N. Y., and Costa Rica."

The colonists, they say, had to cut their way through a wilderness to the site of the proposed city. When "the city" reached the process of clearing was retarded by the rain, and after a few weeks' exposure the colonists began to come down with mountain fever and malaria.

The food consisted mostly of cereals and the only water fit to drink was collected in rude pails. Indians who guided them to "the city" put up primitive thatched cabins. The sickness increased and Gertrude's father died of the fever two weeks ago and was buried the same night. Norrow, whose health is badly shattered, brought the little girl to her former home. She had been badly stung by insects and is under a physician's care. Other colonists, they say, are prevented from returning by lack of funds, and their condition, it is stated, is pitiable.

MARKETS OF THE WORLD

Agricultural Department Crop Reports.

Review of the Condition of the Grain Trade.

Quotations on Everything Sold in the Commercial Centers of This Great Globe.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 176,576 bu., and at five other western points 938,996 bu.; aggregate, 1,115,552 bu. On the corresponding Thursday in 1891 the receipts were 867,899 bu., with only 74,140 bu. of northwest wheat.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were, wheat, 210,642 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 275,000 bu. Export of corn 53,143 bu., and of oats 61,593 bu.

English markets are unchanged in price for wheat and corn, and generally dull.

The government report is always expected and waited for with interest, but it does not often affect the markets as did the July statement. The report of yesterday p. m. following former precedents, does not refer to winter wheat and reduces the condition of spring wheat 3 1-2 points, but the treduction had already been anticipated and discounted, and so far as wheat is concerned the report should have no effect.

On the condition of corn the report makes an improvement considering the crop in all the states north, south, east and west, but in Kansas and Nebraska it is lowered. On the whole the report affords no ground for change of market on corn.

There has been considerable excitement about the crop in the last named states, and there can be no doubt of some injury, but the tendency always is to go to extremes, and we believe if the frosts do not come early, nor before about the average date, say September 20, we shall produce a fair crop.

Some authorities estimate the crop at sixteen hundred millions. We are willing to differ with them, because they are not oftener right than we are. If early frosts do not harm the crop it will be nearer seventeen hundred and fifty millions. These authorities also started the wheat crop aggregate way above five hundred millions and now have arrived at our original estimate of five hundred millions.

The Market Record and other authorities state that considerable wheat will be harvested in South Dakota this week. The movement of new spring will soon supplement the old.

The receipts of wheat at Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, St. Louis, and Minneapolis in the past eight days including to-day, have been 8,922,397 bushels and at the same points on corresponding days in 1891 the receipts were 7,247,757 bushels, excess this year, 1,474,640 bushels. Don't say wheat is not moving.

The bulls in wheat and corn made quite an effort to put up prices at opening market to-day, on the government crop report, but the effort was a failure. Wheat started off 1-2c and corn 1c higher, but the markets for both wheat and corn lost the advance and declinde below yesterday's closing. Corn rallied again later, but wheat did not. There were no other real factors, only a relation of who were buying and who were selling, but that meant nothing for either side.

In New York August wheat closed at 83 1-4c, a loss of 3-8c; September at 83 5-8c, a loss of 5-8c; August corn at 61 3-4c, a gain of 3-8c; September at 60 1-4c, a gain of 7-8c; August oats at 39c, a loss of 1-4c.

In Chicago September wheat closed at 78 1-8c, a loss of 3-8c; August corn at 53 7-8c, and September at 53 1-2c, a gain of 3-8c; September oats at 33 1-2c, a loss of 1c.

In Toledo, we have had about the usual business in wheat futures, with a little more unsteadiness in prices. Opening trading was at 1-2c advance on all the futures dealt in, but prices began to recede immediately, and at the close showed a break from highest point of 3-4c, and a loss of 1-4c compared with yesterday. On the call September sold at 80 1-2@80 3-4c, and October at 81 7-8c. After the call, on the regular board, August and September sold at 80 3-4c dowe to and closed at 80c bid. December sold at 83 3-4c, and closed at 83c.

Cash wheat was active, and the sales aggregate 60,000 bus. No. 2, and 55,000 bus. No. 3 soft, and 55,000 bus. No. 3 for August. No. 2 soft sold at 80 3-4c to 80c and closed at that bid. No. 3 soft sold at 75 3-4c to 75c, and at close 75c was about the market. August sold at 75c and at 74 3-4c. No. 4 soft at 70c. Rejected No. 1 at 73. Rejected white at 69c. Corn—No. 2 at 53c. Rye—On the call September sold at 68 1-2c. Clover seed—On the call October sold at $6 25. After the call the price was again largely advanced with considerable sales. October sold at $6 30 to $6 50, closing at $6 42 1-2; November sold at $6 25 to $6 30, and at close there were sales at $6 30.

Crop Gossip.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The crop returns of the department of agriculture show a slight improvement in the condition of corn, raising the monthly average from 81.1 in July to 82.5 in August. In only four years since the initiation of crop reporting has there been a lower August condition. In the year of worst failure, 1881, it was 79, declining to 66 in October. In 1890 it was 73.3, declining to 70.6 in October. In August, 1886, it was 80.7, and in 1887 it was 80.5, declining later only in the latter years. A slight improvement is indicated in the states north of the Ohio river, and a greater advance in the states west of the Mississippi river, except Kansas and Nebraska. Condition is high in nearly all the southern states, nearly the same as in July in the breadth west of the Mississippi, higher in the lower states of the Atlantic coast, and slightly lower in Alabama and Mississippi. A small decline is seen in the middle states, except New York, and also in the eastern states, though in both of these divisions the average is higher than in the west.

The following averages of principal states are given: New York, 90; Pennsylvania, 86; Virginia, 90; Georgia, 97; Texas, 94; Tennessee, 92; Ohio, 81; Indiana, 74; Illinois, 73; Iowa, 79; Missouri, 83; Kansas, 81; Nebraska, 80. Most correspondents indicate a tendency to further improvement.

The returns relating to spring wheat are lower, declining during the month from a general average of 90.9 to 87.3. The reduction is from 90 to 86 in Wisconsin, 92 to 87 in Minnesota, and 90 to 85 in North Dakota. There has been a slight advance in South Dakota and Nebraska, with no change in Iowa. In the mountain states the condition is high. In Washington a decline is reported from 90 to 78, as a result of blighting heat, and in Oregon from 91 to 76.

Condition of other crops average as follows: Spring rye, 89.8, instead of 92.8 in July; oats, 86.2, a fall of 1 point; barley, 91.1, instead of 92. Buckwheat acreage, 101.3, condition 92.9; potatoes, 86.9, declining from 90; tobacco, 88.8, a fall from 92.7; hay, 93.2.

BUILDINGS CONDEMNED.

Three Summit Street Structures Declared Unsafe

By the Proper Authorities, and Will be Torn Down or Rebuilt so as to Pass Muster.

Yesterday afternoon City Engineer Miller, Chief of Fire Department Wall, and Mayor Emmick condemned three buildings on Summit street.

The buildings referred to are numbers 419, 421 and 423, between Adams and Oak streets.

Number 419 is owned by the John T. Maher estate and occupied by Rudolph Meyer as a saloon.

Number 423 is owned by John Mitchell, who occupies it in conducting a pawn shop.

Number 421 is owned by L. Hoerr and formerly occupied by a saloon conducted by J. W. Eckenrode. The latter place is vacant and is being repaired by the owner.

While excavating at the rear for the construction of an addition, the south wall gave way in the middle, and the southwest corner fell below the level and came near collapsing entirely.

Engineer Miller's attention was called to the matter and, upon inspecting the structure, he called the other two officials into consultation.

In examining the Hoerr building, the other two were found to be in an unsafe condition.

An order was thereupon issued requiring the owners to either build up solid walls or tear the buildings down.

DEAD GAME SPORT.

A Prize Chicken on the Ketcham Farm

Goes Crazy and Mows a Wide Swath of Death Among the Poultry.

Insane men are common enough, and one hears of mad horses and dogs, but a crazy chicken is something new.

About a month ago Tim Murnane, superintendent of the Ketcham stock farm, was presented by a friend with a young game chicken, and thereby hangs a tale.

The bird at once developed an unnatural appetite for blood, particularly that of his kindred. The first day he deliberately tore a turkey four times his size to pieces and plucked it as bare as if it had never borne a feather.

Then the dead game sport tackled a Shanghai rooster, and but for the timely interference of the superintendent, the crazy little bird would have had another death to account for.

"He was continually on the fight," Mr. Murnane said to a Bee this morning, "and never let up until he had finished his victim. It seemed the larger the bird he tackled the better he liked it. He would never attack a bird as small or smaller than himself. When he had killed off several valuable roosters I locked him up and kept him in confinement until a few days ago, when I let him loose.

"He seemed perfectly furious, and on getting his freedom made a dash at a rooster and came mighty near killing him before I could interfere. I took an axe and chopped his head off. But it was a pity to kill him as he was the gamiest little fellow I ever saw. He was simply mad. That is the only way that I account for his peculiar actions."

THE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

That Opens in Toledo August 30th.

The club prize, a silver cup valued at $200, will be presented to the club winning the greatest number of points in the tournament. First prizes in each event will count two points, second prizes one point. Cincinnati now holds the cup. Toledo has an eye on it.

The association also offers the "Challenge Cup" to be contested for by the winner of the tournament in gentlemen's singles and the champion of Ohio, to be contested for at each annual tournament, and the winner thereof will be entitled to the championship of Ohio.

WHY SHE REJECTED HIM.

A Girl Who Had Proper Regard for Economy.

"Say you will be mine!" he pleaded. But she hesitated.

"You have been very kind to me," she said.

"And I swear to devote the balance of my life to you," he protested.

"Your devotion has always been marked," she assented. "I admit that you have paid me every possible attention. You have discovered my favorite flower and kept me supplied with them all last winter. It was very thoughtful of you."

"It was my love—"

"And sweets, George. You seldom let me be without them. It must have taken a great deal of your salary to—"

"Pray, don't speak of salary, Luella. How can one think of money when trying to anticipate your wishes? It was, and is, my greatest pleasure."

"You have seemed to think that I was too fairylike to walk anywhere, no matter how short the distance," she went on.

"A hansom, dearest—you'll let me call you dearest—a hansom is a small matter when one enjoys your company. How could I ask you to walk when I knew you preferred to ride?"

"I appreciate it all, George," she said; I appreciate it fully. And I like you, George. I—I em—perhaps I could truthfully say I—but I can't marry you. I have thought the matter over calmly and seriously and I feel that I could not be happy with you."

"Why not?" he asked anxiously.

"You are too extravagant."—London Tit-Bits.

A "SAFETY" COFFIN.

The Gruesome Contrivance of a German Genius.

Adalbert Kwiatkowski, of Posen Wilda, in Germany, has lately taken out a curious patent—a "safety" coffin. A short tubular opening attached to the coffin lid is connected with a tube sufficiently long to project above the surface of the grave. This tube is normally covered by a cap, but on any movement taking place in the coffin a series of levers is set in motion and a spiral spring contained in the tube is released and pushes the cap off, at the same time displaying a signal above the grave. The idea is that if, after burial, a person should "come to" he would thus be enabled to escape from the tomb.

QUEER CAVE IN CALIFORNIA.

A Pacific Coast Wonder That Has Never Yet Been Explored.

On the north side of Table mountain and near its top is an opening in the lava that has since its early days been known as "the lion's den." It was so named from the fact that for years it was the lair of a band of ferocious California lions that, when the country was largely devoted to sheep raising, made nightly depredations upon the flocks and caused the owners much annoyance and loss. When pursued the animals would seek refuge in this den and no hunter would dare to enter it. The ground about the entrance was covered with the bones and remnants of sheep and other animals. With the increase of population the lions have gradually disappeared, although as late as last spring two of the animals were seen to enter the cave.

Oroville Mercury says no known man has ever penetrated this cave to its fullest depth. The mouth is about four or five feet wide, and the opening descends with a sharp decline for about 200 feet. Further than this it has never been explored. Now, however, a party of young men have made arrangements to explore it, and, if possible, penetrate to its bottom. That it is of great depth is certain, for one can stand at the opening and heave great stones down the declivity and the sound will gradually die away in the distance. The young men have procured several hundred feet of ropes, torches and ladders and will thoroughly explore the cavern.

What adds a peculiar interest to the expedition and gives zest to the explorers is the well known fact that in the heyday of his career as a bandit Joaquin Murietta and his band of faithful followers made the recesses of Table mountain the base of their operations in this section. From there they would swoop down on the miners, and then, laden with gold dust, retreat to the mountains. Search as they might, the officers could not locate them. It has been supposed by many that this cave was where the famous outlaw secreted himself. It may be, too, that deep down in the bowels of the earth Joaquin hid the greater portion of his ill-gotten, but nevertheless just as potent, wealth.

WEST POINT ETHICS.

Three Commandments, the Violation of Which is Unpardonable.

I regret to say that the country at large does not know the army of the United States and does not know West Point. Some people do not seem to know some of the things taught there besides engineering and the classics and military science. I read a little book the other day which told of West Point ethics, and it told what the moral code was, what the commandments were. There are three commandments at West Point for the violation of which there is no pardon and no atonement, and the man who, either there or after he enters the army, violates one of them is disgraced and denounced and driven from the association of his fellow men. Those three commandments are:

Thou shalt not be afraid.
Thou shalt not lie.
Thou shalt not steal.

Mr. Livingston—What do they do with the other seven commandments?

Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama—The other seven, or rather the other eight commandments are taught them by their mothers before they go there, but these three are written upon the tablets of the law at that place, and every man knows that the violation of one of them immediately separates him from the academy. But I will say to the gentleman, if a young man scrupulously keeps these three commandments it is most probable he will keep all the others.—Hartford Courant.
